Peter Hanson to Represent Glendale Realtors at Sacramento

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Newspaper Editors are Governed by Ethics That Bind Them In Honor

THE belief which at one time was rampant throughout the land that news as given by the newspapers had to be read with reservations is fast becoming a thing of the past.

The reading public is coming to accept the news as published in their papers as being true. Of course in catastrophies like the Japanese earthquake they recognize the difficulty in securing any news which is not exaggerated somewhat, on account of the harrowing experiences of those from whom the narratives come.

A writer for a newspaper should be conscientious and a large percentage of them are, but as any other class black sheep do creep in. Even under such conditions the news comes under the observation of the editor and there is small chance for many untrue articles to get into print.

The ethics of the editor of a newspaper must be of the highest order for the reason that the paper he edits should be and undoubtedly is to a more or less extent a molder of public opinion.

THE power to mold public opinion is either a beneficient agency for good or a dangerous weapon for bad, according to its use.

Under these conditions the reading public should be much interested in the ethics of the editor of the paper they read. Especially is this true in the case of the larger papers and those that treat subjects in an editorial way.

It makes no difference who writes the editorials the editor of the paper they appear in is responsible for the thought they carry. If the welfare of the people of the community his paper circulates in is the first and only consideration, well and good, but should he let anything of a personal nature creep in the editorials lose their force. Some individuals seem to get the idea that they should be given the use of an editorial column for some personal proposition that they are interested in and are much disappointed when their request is not granted.

AN editor in keeping faith with the public at times alienates some whom he has been accustomed to class as his friends, but the man who accepts the responsibility of editing a newspaper must recognize that the welfare of the community is paramount to even friendship.

GLENDALE'S Chief of Police is complaining about the great number of people who are violating the traffic ordinances in our city.

In a news article regarding this subject in today's issue there appears a tabulation of the violations. In checking over this table we find only a few listed for excess speed and probably a percentage of these were misjudged.

WE do not advocate law violations of any nature but this disregard for the traffic laws we claim is through lack of knowledge. There are just as many arrests made of citizens who are law abiding in every other way and who would observe the traffic laws if they were better acquainted with the regulations.

A law or traffic regulation is passed one day and without any publicity to speak of arrests are made immediately.

If traffic officers would start a campaign of education they would find a ready response from the people.

The chief must expect some grumbling from the law-abiding individual who is arrested for some trivial infraction of the law, made not through design but on account of lack of knowledge.

THIS newspaper will be more than glad to assist our police department in carying on a publicity campaign.

We have always thought that fewer accidents would occur if a law was passed compelling the driver of an auto to pass an examination, this to cover not only his physical fitness but also a knowledge of traffic laws and regulations. Eventually this will come. The sooner the better.

Southern California: Unsettled and occasionally threatening tonight and Tuesday; moderate winds, mostly westerly.

PETER HANSON WINS REALTY BOARD CONTEST

Board Also Has Jubilee Meeting Over Sewer Contract

A fair audience came out to hear the speeches celebrating Glendale which were submitted at the contest put on at the Chamber of Commerce Saturday night by the Realty board to determine its representative in the five-minute talks on "The Home Town" to be given at the state convention at Sacramento October 10 to 13, and Peter Hanson was declared the winner.

Besides this contest it was converted into a jubilee meeting at which to rejoice over the success of the negotiations with Los Angeles for a sewer outlet. All members of the city council were present and a resolution thanking them and congratulating them on their good work was adopted to which Mayor Robinson responded on behalf of the council.

Councilman Sam Davis and City Attorney Ray Morrow made speeches in which they interpreted to some extent the terms of the proposed contract.

Dr. Jessie Russell told of plans for the caravan to the state convention which will be attended by about thirty Glendalians as follows:

Messrs. and Mesdames C. D. Thom, W. L. Twining, J. L. Wernette, Charles Guthrie, C. W. Ingledue, W. A. Horn, George W. McDill and daughter, Mrs. E. L. Foor, Dr. Jessie Russell and son Harold Russell, Miss Winifred Traver, Mrs. Gaskill, E. P. Hayward, Peter Hanson, Harold Blackmore and Walter Jones.

There were five speakers in the contest, viz., Peter Hanson, Charles Guthrie, Dr. Jessie Russell, W. L. Truitt and Mrs. E. L. Foor, who is with the Goodell company. The judges who awarded first place to Peter Hanson and second honors to Charles Guthrie were: Val Hollister, Albert Pearce and Miss Myrtle Baldwin. Mr. Hanson made a very fine speech.

FORTY-FIVE PINTS, 45% ALCOHOL, ARE DESTROYED

Forty-five pints of whisky containing 45 percent alcohol were destroyed by Lieutenant Royle and Desk Sergeant Cole at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The "dope" was taken in a raid last Thursday night when these two officers entered a home at 2011 Fourth street, Glendale, where the officers had reason to believe illicit liquor distilling was taking place. The work was carried on, according to the police, by Bert Harris and E. B. Creason, whose whereabouts now is unknown to the police.

In the raid a still made of a common copper wash boiler was also taken and is now at city hall. Harris was formerly employed at the cannery of Libby, McNeil & Libby in Burbank. Since the raiding of this home the police have been trying to find a clue that would lead to the arrest of the men, but to this time nothing of kind has been found.

SEPTEMBER, 1923 TOPS SLIGHTLY SEPTEMBER, 1922

By a close margin of $12,524, the building permits for September, 1923, nosed out the permits for September, 1922. The values of the permits were as follows:

September, 1923, 660,244.
September, 1922, 647,720.

As the permits issued last year in September were considered a wonder amount it will be seen that, although the permits this year did not "top" those of last by a great amount, they are doing just as well as could be expected. In fact, it is probable that with this amount of permits Glendale last month was one of the "high fives" of California.

The permits issued last Saturday morning bring the total for the year up to $7,315,971, which is going "some," even for Glendale. The permits thus far in 1923 are just $1,010,000 in excess of those for the entire of 1922.

THEY'RE ALL GETTING THAT CLASSIFIED HABIT

"Results are turning the trick," said Mrs. Harriet Thompson, "boss" of the classified advertising department of the Glendale Press this morning.

"The real value of the Press want ads is just becoming known by many advertisers of Glendale, although some have known it for a long time. Those who were aware of this fact have been selfishly keeping the secret to themselves. But a secret of this kind cannot help but leak out.

"And now that so many of the advertisers of Glendale have found out this secret, the classified columns are filling up with wonderful rapidity. We are running over two pages daily now and things are looking exceedingly bright.

"More advertisements are coming in unsolicited than ever before.

"They say 'you can't keep a good man down.' It's just that way with a newspaper.

"But things have just started. Watch our smoke. Glendale Press want ads are already the talk of the town, but we are going to put them on every tongue in this entire vicinity, 'cause why, the people know what they want and when they want."

TOMORROW IS CRUCIAL TIME IN OKLAHOMA

Said to Be 100,000 Men Under Arms on Both Sides

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 1.—One hundred thousand men, according to Governor J. C. Walton's calculations, took up arms in Oklahoma today to carry out the executive's orders that there should be no special election in the state tomorrow.

At the election, officially called and then banned by the governor, voters were to cast their ballots on an initiative law providing that the legislature might convene itself without an official summons from the governor. Walton declared his enemies, made by his militaristic fight against the Ku Klux Klan, agitated the proposed law.

George F. Short, state attorney general; W. C. McAllister, secretary of the state election board, and other officials joined in saying the election would be held, in ordering ballots printed and making other arrangements to keep the polls open.

Short said "every voter should go to the polls quietly and peaceably to cast his ballot as his conscience dictated."

Printing presses throughout the state were rushing to turn out ballots for the election.

The governor said his armed force to prevent the polls from opening included:

The entire Oklahoma National Guard of 4000 men, now ordered mobilized;

A volunteer army of 75,000 men;

The governor's special corps of secret operatives, which he said composed 22,000.

The governor said that while the militia would not be used to keep the polls closed, it would be held in readiness in case any rioting developed. His special police will be stationed at the doors of the polls.

At the same time Governor Walton ordered every county sheriff to padlock the polls and warned election officials against attempting to hold the referendum.

"There may be bloodshed, although I dread to say it," Governor Walton stated, "but there will be no election.

"If there is bloodshed it can be placed at the door of the newspapers which have caused this trouble. If the Muskogee Phoenix, the Oklahoma City Oklahoman and its echo, the Oklahoma News, and the Tulsa Tribune had been locked up and their keys thrown into the river six weeks ago we would not be having this trouble today."

PHILATHEA CLASS TO MEET AT KELLERS

The Philathea class of the First M. E. church will meet with Miss Gladys Keller, 575 Glendale avenue, Tuesday evening at 6:30 when a cafeteria supper will be served.

BRIEFS FROM FLOOD STRICKEN STATES IN EAST

Wyoming, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma Are Sufferers

[By Associated Press]

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 1.—One car, a smoker of the Burlington passenger train which plunged into flooded Cole creek Thursday night, still remains below the quicksand of the creek bed.

With the other four cars above water and sand, rescue crews have failed to add to the four bodies which had been recovered early Saturday.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Oct. 1.—Cloudbursts have swept northern and western Wyoming for more than a week with the regularity of the ocean tide.

Property damage is constantly mounting, although no loss of life has been reported. Water again began rising in Sheridan last night after the worst of floods appeared to be over. It was receding this morning.

Railway traffic through this part of the state is virtually at a standstill.

Greybull and Manderson, Wyo., report greatest damage, with numerous houses partially flooded.

Highways and bridges have suffered the same fate as rail lines.

WOODWARD, Okla., Oct. 1.—Streets here were flooded today and considerable damage caused by a severe rain and hail storm which swept northwestern Oklahoma during the night.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Oct. 1.—The city was slowly recovering today from the worst flood in its history.

Red Cross relief workers, assisted by three companies of national guardsmen worked continuously since Saturday supplying food, clothing and medicine to several hundred homeless families.

Guardsmen in boats and on rafts carried them from the lowlands to higher ground. No further casualties have occurred. Funerals of the six victims of Friday's storm will be held today.

Forty thousand sight-seers from Omaha and surrounding territory viewed the storm-swept sections Sunday.

CREDIT ASS'N ENDORSES SEWER BONDS STRONGLY

By Unanimous Vote Declares Its Advocacy of Same

The Glendale Credit association at its noon luncheon today in Jensen's Egyptian cafe went on record as unanimously favoring the sewer bond issue, and suitable resolutions will be drafted setting forth the sewer proposition and the great benefits to be derived from the completion of the great project.

F. C. Butler, manager of the Lewis Jewelry company, made a motion that the association lend every possible aid to the city council in the work, and further that a committee be appointed to assist in working out a campaign that will show the sewer problem in its true light in order that the voters may be fully informed before the election for sewer bonds is held.

Mr. Butler said: "Word has come to me already that several big concerns that have left Glendale out of their program of development heretofore, are now considering the location of extensive manufacturing plants and the erection of big buildings here providing the sewers are put in, and we cannot fully appreciated what the completion of a good sewer system will mean to the growth of Glendale."

President Owen Emery brought the matter to the attention of the members and urged that the movement be started at once to aid in the carrying of the sewer bonds.

"It will require a concerted effort on the part of all organizations and every man and women who has the future welfare of Glendale at heart to put this proposition over, and our future depends upon the completion of sewers more than anything else. Our assessed valuation will allow us to issue several times the amount of bonds required to build the sewer, and even if we were up to the limit on bonds we should pass this bond issue for it must be done if Glendale is to grow. Our very life depends upon the building of a sewer system."

SURE OUR PATER HE YOOST BANE VON FINE MON

"Our Pater Hanson is von fine mon when it come to sleenging de bool. He know Glendale ver' good and he sleeng him around qust like he vant to."

You see, Peter, at the chamber of commerce, won the right and honor to represent Glendale in a 5-minute talk at the coming convention of Realtors in Sacramento. The way Pete threw the poor helpless animal around was worse than a fright. Up against the ceiling and down again to the floor, from the east wall to the south end of the auditorium went the inoffensive beast. Pete didn't have anything that looked like a heart. The farther he went the worse matters grew. And when Pete came to an abrupt stop in a cloud of dust, his hair disheveled and gigantic beads of perspiration standing out on his forehead, the crowd went wild. Some folk thought he had been singing "The Old Oaken Bucket," or something of the kind, while some declared he had been giving his famous oration, entitled, "A. B. C."

"He is one fine mon, is our Pater."

J. B. WHITTAKER DIES SUDDENLY IN MILWAUKEE

Was Taken Ill While on Extended Business Trip

Word was received Sunday, September 30, 1923, that J. B. Whittaker of 407 West Harvard street had passed away at 5 a. m. at Milwaukee. Mr. Whittaker left Glendale about three weeks ago on an extended business trip. While going through Mexico he was taken ill on the train and grew worse. When he arrived at Milwaukee he was critically ill and was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Connell, where the best medical attention was given him.

It was thought that he was improving, but Mrs. Whittaker received word Wednesday that he was worse and she left Glendale Thursday for Milwaukee, where she was to have arrived last night. Mr. Whittaker leaves his widow and two daughters and a son, Irene, Alice and Fred, all of Glendale.

At the time of his death Mr. Whittaker was in his 63rd year. He was prominent in Masonic circles and was also a member of the Elks, Eastern Star, White Shrine and other organizations. He was well known and highly esteemed in the financial and real estate circles of Glendale. Mr. Whittaker came to Glendale four years ago from Wisconsin.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but the body will be brought to Glendale for burial.

ART ASOCIATION PARTY AT TUJUNGA

The party at the studio of Mrs. Laura Sweet at Tujunga at which members of the Glendale Art association were guests Saturday night, proved a largely attended and very delightful affair. It was broadened to include artists in all lines and its excellent program included vocal and instrumental music and readings by some of the artist authors. Pictures were on exhibit by Mrs. Sweet and others, and of course there were refrshments. The Glendale delegation included Mrs. Roy Ballagh, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. John Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cheever, Miss Annie McIntyre, Miss Alice Livesy, Miss Lorraine Mitchell, Miss Edith Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, L. T. Rowley, Mrs. DeWitt and Mr. and Mrs. Frankinstine.

A. B. SUTTON HOME WAS ROBBED SUNDAY

The home of A. B. Sutton, 727 East Windsor road, was entered and robbed some time Sunday, according to the police department records. A list of the goods stolen will be turned over to the police today.

POLICE CHIEF SAYS TRAFFIC LAWS IGNORED

Officers Found 415 Violations in Space of 60 Minutes

In response to criticism that has been directed at the Glendale police department in connection with arrests that have been made for traffic violations at street intersections, Chief Fraser this morning took exception.

"Some residents of Glendale," stated the chief, "are complaining when they are picked up for violation of traffic laws and they claim that the police department is too stringent in its enforcement of the laws.

"Any violators of the traffic laws should be arrested and fined and we are employed to see that they are picked up, and the truth is that on account of lack of men we are not enforcing it stringently enough. The number of traffic violations in Glendale is almost unbelievable and the wonder is that there are not more accidents than do occur."

For the purpose of securing actual figures as to the number of violations Chief Fraser states that he placed three of his officers on three of the prominent corners of the city with instructions that no arrests be made. The result is that within one hour 415 traffic violations occurred. These were divided as follows: Wilson and Brand, 190; Lexington and Brand, 127, and California and Brand, 98. The count was taken between 4 and 5 o'clock in the [illegible]ng.

These violations were divided as follows:

Wilson and Brand: Excess speed violations, 21; passing on intersection, 29; no hand signal, 110; cut out open, 5; passing on right, 10; improper signal, 8; no red flag, 1; driving in center of street, 2. Total violations in one hour, 190.

Lexington and Brand: Excess speed violations, 27; passing on intersection, 5; no hand signal, 80; cut out open, 5; cutting corners, 1; passing on right, 1; improper signal, 5; no red flag, 2; turning in center of block, 1. Total violations, one hour, 127.

California and Brand: Excess speed violations, 63; passing on intersection, 15; no hand signal, 10; improper signal, 10. Total violations, one hour, 98.

Responding to the claim that arrests are being made for trifling infractions of the law at the corner of Doran and Columbus, where a grammar school is located, Chief Fraser said:

"This is one of the most dangerous corners in Glendale and during school hours the children who attend that school are constantly in danger. Many complaints against the traffic violators have been made by residents living in the region of this intersection and we are giving that corner particular attention at this time. The buttons have been so placed as to make it very difficult for motorists to speed, but notwithstanding this, speeding occurs, the drivers cutting the corners if they cannot go fast enough to suit themselves otherwise.

"One of the big jobs of this department is to protect the children of the city and we are going to do it if we have to arrest every motorist in Glendale, who violates the law.

Sergeant Cole of our department watched that corner for 15 minutes Sunday afternoon and during that time there were 12 traffic violations, any of which might have resulted in the injury of a child.

"If motorists will cut corners, fail to signal or signal incorrectly, pass at intersections, run with cut-out open, pass on the right of other cars, drive in the center of the street or the like in Glendale they may expect to be picked up, for that is just what will happen to them if we are able to turn the trick. We will treat every motorist fairly, but in return the motorist must treat the general public as he should, by obeying the traffic laws."

WATCH STOLEN FROM ROSS JEWELRY STORE

Shortly before 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening someone stole a watch from the show case of the store of H. G. Ross jeweler. A search is being made for the thief.

HERE'S PLUCKY KENDALL TUNE, WHO'S FIGHTING FOR LITTLE AUTO

Do you kow Kendall?

No? Well, by way of introduction let us say that "Ken" is one of the pluckiest, fightinest, hard workinest, courageous little fellows you ever could meet. He is 16 years old, take it from us, he represents 16 years full of real grit. Whenever he wants a thing he is willing to get out and work for it and no favors asked.

Kendall is one of the contestants in the subscription contest that is being conducted now by the Glendale Daily Press, and the way this young fellow has been bringing in the new subscriptions is a caution. A week ago he was in seventh place. Today he is only the fourth from the top and is going strong.

Kendall has a drawback that mighty few boys have to overcome, but even with this he is holding his own with the best of those who are robust and strong.

Six and a half years ago, when infantile paralysis was going the rounds, Kendall was stricken. The disease left him a cripple, and it is only by the aid of braces that he is now able to walk about.

"Ken" is after the little automobile that is being offered in the Press contest as first prize. It is a dandy little air-cooled car that will enable the handicapped youngster to get around more readily. He has a little car of this kind, but that machine has served its day. Another one must be provided to take its place. That's why this plucky youngster is working so hard to win the one that the Press will give to the "high man."

For a year and a half Kendall has been corner boy at the Gateway, where, during that time, he has made many friends. He lives at 1801 Vassar street. He has resided there for the past four years, every minute of which has been full of work. And while Ken wo[illegible] he smiles. You never saw such a "catching" smile in your life. It's of the kind that won't wash off, as they say.

"I've simply got to win that automobile," said Kendall this morning. "It's pretty hard for me to get around and that little car is just the thing I need. The one I've got is worn out. I'm going to work to the last minute. The people of Glendale are going to stand back of me in this fight, I know. All I ask is a fair chance. With that I know I can win out. I can almost see myself going [illegible] Brand in that spanking new [illegible]ay, won't it be great?"

Just Off the Wire From Here and There

[By Associated Press]

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 1.—Vice Chancellor Foster today issued an injunction restraining Police Director Brennan from interfering with the appearance of Roscoe Arbuckle, former motion picture comedian, at a dance in a local hall tonight. Director Brennan had barred Arbuckle on the grounds that the application for the dance had not mentioned his appearance.

Vice Chancellor Foster declared that Arbuckle was like any other man and had the right to make his living.

FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 1.—Charles F. Dillon, city commisioner of finance, went on trial today on charges of embezzlement and falsification of city records. Dillon and Harry Erickson, city license collector, were indicted jointly in two true bills returned by the grand jury August 27. The charges included embezzlement of $7200. Five jurors were passed for cause this morning.

BASTROP, La., Oct. 1.—Arraignments were waived and pleas of "not guilty" were entered in the district court here today in the cases of 12 alleged Klansmen charged with misdemeanors in connection with hooded mob activities in Morehouse parish, resulting in the murder of Thomas F. Richards and Watt Daniels near Mar Rouge in August 24, 1922.

The defendants included Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan; Dr. B. M. McCoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge and T. Jeff Burnett, former deputy sheriff.

November 5 was the date assigned for trial.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 1.—Wireless messages received here at 2:20 p. m., today from Captain Anderson of the Diana Dollar, which is now on the Mexican coast 1000 miles south, indicated that the danger aboard the flame-stricken steamer is materially lessened. She is due to dock here late Wednesday.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—The revolutionary movement originated by nationalist organizations at Ingolstadt has been put down, says communique issued by the ministry of defense and the reinforcements which have been requested will not be required.

ALL SET FOR "PETTICOAT LANE" TO OPEN TONIGHT

The rehearsals for the Le Molay play, "Petticoat Lane," with music which is to be presented at the Tuesday Afternoon club tonight and tomorrow ended last week and the tickets have been selling rapidly.

The story of this popular play concerns a manicurist who hasn't a penny and who is looking for a millionaire husband, and a young college student, also shy of coppers who is looking for a millionaire wife. The two meet, both posing as members of the "idle-rich" society. Fireworks and laugh bombs result.

Miss Marie Hearnshaw, with her charming dramatic ability capably takes the part of the manicurist, and Mr. Claude Whitfield is a regular "rah rah" college boy. The remaining roles are taken by Glendale talent of highest calibre and include Hazel Linkogel, Catherine Guthrie, Valera Trimmer, Paul Morgan, Howard Elliott, Elmer Fitz and more than 60 other Glendalians.

One of the features of the evening will be the singing of "Memory's Garden" by Sarafin Pla. This song was written by Mr. Lucien Denni especially for Mme. Frances Alda, and numerous operatic stars have included it in their repertoires.

The book for "Petticoat Lane" was written by Mrs. Lucien Denni and Mr. Denni is responsible for lilting tunes that one can't forget.

Insofar as line parties from Long Beach, Los Angeles, and Hollywood will be present at both performances of the play, a very good idea as to what people outside of Glendale think of "Petticoat Lane" can be had.

DAMAGED

BUSINESS FORECASTING MOST IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT

Twenty years ago a young man walked into the office of a Boston banker and resigned the job that was paying him $100 a month. Then he immediately offered to do the same work for $12.50 a month!

When the banker had recovered from his astonishment he found that the young man in question proposed to do the same work for eleven other bankers at $12.50 a month each. The deal was made and Roger W. Babson became statistician for a dozen Boston bankers at a combined income of $150 a month. Today he is the most widely quoted man on business conditions in America.

He collected figures on general business and financial conditions, copied them longhand, and delivered them daily to his customers. Being a graduate engineer it was natural that he should try to analyze these figures—to chart and study them. They were a part of general business conditions and the business world had been beset by alternate periods of good times and bad times since there hadn't been any business to prosper or suffer. There might be some connection.

Two years' charting and study in the back room of a house in Wellesley Hills, Mass., brought out just one fact—that each of these individual factors when charted evidenced a sort of wave movement. Perhaps Newton's Law of Action-Reaction might govern here as it did in physics and mathematics. On the strength of the supposition Rogers Babson went to England and studied all the writings of the great scientists that were available. He came back convinced—in fact he had found Newton's own prediction that some day men would realize that business and human relations were governed by this same fundamental law.

Another year's work and a dozen of these figures on fundamental business conditions had been combined into a picture of American business, which evidenced clearly the governing principle of Newton's law. Since "every action is followed by an equal reaction" it became possible to judge coming events by our present position—and business forecasting was born!

The tremendous importance of this discoverey and application is apparent when you realize that for hundreds of years business men had been the victims of a treacherous current that favored them with prosperity only to turn suddenly and bring ruin and panic upon them. Great businesses were built up—largely by luck—only to be smashed like a house of cards when caught by an unexpected depression. The economic loss of such an uncertain system was bad enough but the human suffering it caused was much worse. Men spent their lives in building a business only to see it carried down by a current beyond their control. Failing prices mean unemployment, hunger and suffering. The history of every depression has been written in blood. Now all this was to be changed for the business man could know which way the tide of general business conditions would run and could plan to take advantage of the current instead of trying to run counter to it. The great fundamental forces that govern business, beyond the control of any group of men, no longer threatened but could be made to do constructive work.

It was not as easy as that for the man who discovered it. His friends and business acquaintances judged him crazy. The idea that anyone could tell what was going to happen in business, in investments or in the stock market was preposterous! The universities scoffed and the general public jeered.

Since then the theories have been proved, the scoffers have been convinced and the business world at large has accepted business forecasting as a fact.

Just now Roger W. Babson is busy building a great educational institution; namely, the Babson Institute which is to perpetuate this work. It is endowed and operated under a non-profit making charter. In fact, the project is so promising that the several hundred acres surrounding it just outside of Boston is developing into the town of Babson Park—a future center of information and education of the entire business world. Colonel John Decrow—one of the leading citizens of Wellesley, recently referred to it as "the statistical city," a rather fitting tribute, we think, to the father of business forecasting.

The Babsonchart

We reproduce, herewith, the Babsonchart of American business conditions for those who may be interested in its construction.

Statistics on the twelve leading barometers of business—building, bank transactions, failures, labor conditions, money conditions, foreign trade, gold movements and money rates, commodity prices, investment statistics, crop conditions, railroad earnings, and social factors, are combined to determine the course of the various lines of the chart.

The line X-Y, for instance, that marks the natural growth of America is determined by bank transactions.

The line which bounds the various areas above and below the X-Y line is a combination of all these barometers. It shows the actual path of business.

It is the areas between these lines that demonstrate Newton's Law and make scientific forecasting possible. You will note that the black space above the line marked "B" is approximately equaled in area by the period of depression below the line marked "C." Likewise "D" is equaled in area by "E." "F," the great period of war and post-war inflation, is rapidly being offset by the depression area "G"—over 60 per cent of this deflation having been completed.

The sickening of business last spring did not last because it got started before the readjustment finished. The chart indicates that business will not boom again until 1925, but that 1924 will be much better than 1921 or early in 1922 because the worst of the depression is over.

There is no way of telling how high the next period of prosperity will take us but as it nears its peak it will be easy to tell just how much readjustment must take place. It is exactly like borrowing from a bank because business actually borrows from the bank of prosperity. Nobody knows how much you will borrow but when it comes time to pay back, one can easily figure how much you must pay back. Just so, busiess inflation must be paid back in deflation, but the country as a whole gets gradually more prosperous as is indicated by the long trend of the X-Y line.

A few moments study of the chart will convince you that good business is not wild prosperity, that must be paid back in economic headache, but rather business near the X-Y line of normal growth that is neither "too good to last" nor so bad as to cause suffering and hardship. Normal business is sound business.

We asked Mr. Babson what makes these continuous changes—these ups and downs. He answered, "Because people try to run counter to the Ten Commandments and the multiplication table. Whenever 51 per cent of the people try to ride in the cart and let the rest pull it, then business begins to decline. But when 51 per cent of the people, actuated by the spirit of service, are pulling the cart, then business improves. Hence, even poor business has its silver lining—it makes people see the errors of pleasure seeking, indifference to work and wasteful extravagance. All America needs now is honest industry and a general desire to serve—then business will be better than ever."

Sunday Was Full Day at Gospel Tabernacle

Sunday was a full day at the Gospel Tabernacle church where the Christian and Missionary Alliance convention is being held. At the morning service many heard Rev. E. J. Richards of New York for the first time. Mr. Richards answered the question, "Who Are the Spiritual?" He clearly showed that only those can be called "spiritual" who are filled with the Holy Spirit.

The afternoon session was addressed by Dr. Frederick W. Farr. It was a most scholarly and helpful address on "The Power of God's Word." All went to their homes feeling that they were rich indeed in possessing the "God breathed word."

The evening service was a time of heart-searching as Rev. E. J. Richards, home secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance preached a stirring evangelistic sermon on "The Two Paths." The altar was filled with seekers for salvation and the deeper Christian life.

The meetings continue daily at 2:30 and 7:30 throughout the week. Tonight Mr. Richards speaks on "The Broken Life." Tuesday at 2:30 Dr. Elwood P. Lyon of Pasadena will bring the message.

He had opportunity to meet personally William G. McAdoo, who was the speaker of the afternoon and was much impressed with him. About 10,000 were present and enjoyed the program of sports as well as the speeches. Quite a delegation went from Glendale.

RALLY WEEK IS ON AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Many Great Things Are in Store for Congregation, It Is Said

This week is rally week at the First Baptist church of Glendale. Every member of that organization is working overtime to make this one of the greatest periods in the history of the church. Yesterday was rally Sunday in the Sunday school. The following rally program will be carried out during the week in the various departments of the church.

Monday night the regular meeting of the board of deacons, and the board of trustees.

Tuesday night an important meeting of the advisory committee. Every member of the official family urged to be present.

Wednesday night the annual meeting of the church for the election of officers, and the reading of the annual reports. All officers of the church, secretaries of auxiliary organizations, are expected to submit written reports.

Thursday evening the Rally Round Up of the Tri Mu Men's Bible Class in the social hall of the church. Every man of the class urged to be present.

Friday evening rally of all the young people of the church and congregation. This is not for the B. Y. P. U. only, but for all the young people. Important matters of business will be considered, and plans made for the coming year, which will interest all the young people.

Next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rally of the membership of the church. The Lord's Supper will be solemnized. Hand of Fellowship given to new members, and a record made of all who attend.

Sunday morning the Tri Mu Men's class will hold its annual roundup at 9:30 a. m.

Sunday evening the men of the Tri Mu Bible class will have charge of the service. A large male chorus will lead the singing and render some special numbers. Several short talks will be made by members of the class. Everybody is invited to attend.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Marie Yeoman, 601 North Jackson street, Friday, October 5, at 2 p. m. The Radiograms will be given by the state president, Mrs. Eva Wheeler.

REALTY BOARD TO HAVE LUNCHEON AT ARD EEVEN

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell will be host and hostess to the Glendale Realty Board at luncheon on Wednesday at Ard Eeven, their home in the foothills, in Glendale's most aristocratic residence section. Mrs. Campbell long ago established a reputation as an entertainer and caterer and when she has the background of her own home she is hard to surpass. It is reasonably certain that not a member of the board will be absent from the feast. It will also be an opportunity to inspect the new subdivision, "Campbell Heights," which is being placed upon the market.

"Possessing the Land," Is Dr. Funk's Theme

An inspiring audience heard Dr. Funk speak on "Possessing the Land" at the First Lutheran church yesterday morning. It was the occasion of the opening service in the new location, the upper room of the annex being far enough along to be occupied.

"Today we are entering a new field, a new location. What does this mean? It means that God is opening for us the door of opportunity. Will we be slackers, or will we grasp the opportunity? Get busy, pull together, work hard, and success is assured, for God is able to do all things; and with His help we can do anything we want to do that is reasonable.

"A lady said to me the other day: 'You seem to be so sure. Are you not sometimes afraid?' No, why should I be afraid? God is infinite, and I believe in Him. I have the utmost confidence in my people and I think they trust in me. God will raise up friends for us. Yea, He is doing so this very hour, for His spirit is here, the guarantee of success.

"We must learn to live in a personal relationship with God. I'm working for Him. If you are a carpenter you ought to drive every nail for God; if you are a shoemaker, make every pair of shoes to please Him.

"You readily recall those four terrible years of bloody war. Our allies were defeated for weeks and months, yea, for years. Daily we read the accounts of their defeat. So terrible was the strain that many could not sleep. But finally the papers published a story that seemed too good to be true; it was victory, victory, week after week, until the final day came, never to be forgotten, when the armistice was declared. The church bells rang, and the people shouted for joy, because peace, sweet peace, the gift of God's love, had come.

"We have this day entered upon a new place, which with God's help we are going to possess, and with divine aid we will build for Him a temple that shall glorify His great and holy name."

COURSE IN FRENCH AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Announcement is made by the extension division of the state university, southern branch, that a special course in French will be given at the Glendale Union high school, Saturday mornings. This course is under the instruction of Ethel W. Bailey, Ph. D.

A man was boasting to some others he had met that he could take any article from a store without being detected. One of his hearers bet him twenty dollars that he could not take a box of chocolates in this way.

The man agreed, and they went into a grocery store.

"You wait here, said the daring one, "and you'll see."

With these words he went into the store, took a box of chocolates from the counter, and walked out.

"There you are!" he said proudly. "I've won the wager!"

The stranger smiled.

"You're very smart," he answered. "But I happen to be a detective, and I am going to arrest you for stealing!"

"Wait a bit, sir," said the other, "I happen to be the owner of the store."

"He Who Hesitates Is Safe," Is New Version of Old, Old Proverb

OMAHA, Oct. 1.—"He who hesitates at grade crossings is safe," says President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific system, in his monthly talk for October. To hesitate means to pause before acting. Failure to do so has caused deaths of 9,101 persons in the last five years, which Mr. Gray reminds us is almost twice the number killed in the battle of Gettysburg.

Railroading in America has been so highly developed that serious collisions and derailments are now rare, as compared with thirty or forty years ago. Large railroad systems sometimes go for years without a single fatal mishap to a passenger on their trains. The face value of some accident insurance policies automatically doubles in case of injury in a steam train accident. One is safer, therefore, on a train than at home. On the other hand why is travel by automobile unsafe? Mr. Gray gives two reasons. Except in a few states automobile drivers are not examined before being licensed and in not more than one case of five does the driver stop and look in either direction at grade crossing.

Something must be done at once to stop this awful sacrifice of human life. Eliminating all grade crossings is not the remedy, according to Mr. Grey, who points out that there are 250,000 such crossings in the United States and at an average of $50,000 it would cost $12,500,000,000 to remove them, and at least thirty years would be required to do the work. Aside from the fact that neither the railroads nor the municipalities have the money, and that the railroads could raise the mony only by raising the rates, the remedy must be applied here and now.

The Stop, Look and Listen rule can be made eective at once, without any cost, except the price of a few seconds' wait at the crossing to let pass the train which by law and common sense has the right of way.

Two features of the grade crossing accident question need emphasizing. When a motorist races with a train and scoots over the crossing just in front of it, or if he stops, but gives the engineer no evidence that he intends to do so, the engineer suffers a severe nervous shock which frequently unnerves him.

Nor are the occupants of the automobile the oinly ones whose lives are imperiled by grade crossing accidents. Recently several trains on eastern roads have been derailed by colliding with motor vehicles and enginemen and passengers have been killed.

The railroads carry on nation-wide "Cross Crossings Carefully" campaigns. They maintain warning signs. They require enginemen to sound the whistle and the bell at every grade crossing. They provide crossing bells, watchmen and gates where necessary. It is only right that motorists should do their part by stopping to look in both directions and listen before attempting to cross. If every motorist would take the pledge to do that, crossing accidents and not human lives, would be wiped out.

Where "Black Gold" Flows
in the Pacific-Southwest

THE Pacific-Southwest is producing 28% of the world's supply of petroleum. Production in this district has far exceeded the demands of the Pacific Coast and consequently large quantities are being shipped to Eastern and Gulf ports through the Panama Canal, and to various other parts of the world. Los Angeles Harbor, leading the world in the exportation of petroleum, set a new weekly record of 3,175,000 barrels in July.

Since the first of this year the average daily production in the Pacific-Southwest has increased by 330,000 barrels and is now exceeding 886,000 barrels per day. The value to the producer at the field of the crude oil output in this territory during the first six months of 1923 was more than $107,000,000.00.

SCOUT ROUNDUP BRINGS OUT A BIG ATTENDANCE

More Than 300 Attend Delightful Affair in the Hills

The aim of the Scout roundup of the Verddgo Hills council, held under direction of the Troop Leaders' Round Table, to bring the various troops and their patrons together and promote acquaintance, was accomplished and it proved a very delightful affair, enjoyed by about 300 scouts, leaders and friends. It was held at Los Robles Verdes, the home of the Robison family, on Honolulu avenue, La Crescenta, and began at 3 p. m.

H. Benjamin Robison, chief councillor of the Round Table, had general charge of arrangements and Councilor Wilson directed the program.

Beaver Patrol of Troop No. 2 made the camp fire ring and the word was brought by Troop 1 of La Crescenta, both organizations doing fine work.

When the roundup started about 90 scouts were present. The first event was a big game of "Capture the Flag," which lasted about two hours and was a lively affair.

Challenging contests followed, the scouts being collected in a ring under the oak trees, the boys challenging each other to "Indian Wrestling," "Pull Up," "Horse and Rider," "Cock Fighting," etc., this part of the program ending with a monster "Tug of War" in which the leaders joined, much to the delight of the scouts.

By this time it was dark enough to turn on the electric lights which had been strung under the oaks and which provided a setting like fairyland for the picnic supper, for which the scouts were now ready. The company, which by this time numbered some 300, was disposed in groups and hot coffee and cocoa were furnished and hot dog sandwiches were sold to finance the expense.

Following the supper the big camp fire was lighted in a natural amphitheatre at the foot of a high bank on which guests were seated, a nook well protected by the oaks and sycamores which surround it.

The evening's program which, it was stated, was in charge of Mr. Walker, opened with the song, "Pack Along," by the scoutmaster's quartet, composed of Messrs. Wilson, Walker, Wattles and Taylor.

Then came addresses of welcome. The host of the evening, H. B. Robison, chief council of the Round Table, led and was followed by Scout Director Harold Benner, A. R. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills Council, and by representatives of various organizations present.

Between speeches and songs, yells were led throughout the evening by Cecil Paurarah of Troop No. 2.

Roy L. Kent, treasurer of the council, gave an interesting talk in which he described his experiences at the National council meeting held at Bear Mountain, New York, where General Pershing and other notables were present, and where Mr. Kent was elected to membership.

Ed Alling, Assistant Camp director at Catalina last year, gave a talk and then the program of stunts by scouts was put on.

The first was by Troop 1 of Glendale and depicted good turns done by scouts.

Troop 2 of Glendale had a stunt representing ten animals of a prehistoric age, which was very funny.

Anther clever number was a fake radio stunt put on by Troop 4 of Glendale.

Scouts of La Crescenta recited the twelve scout laws and put on a most amusing stunt, a take-off on the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Troop 1 of Burbank gave a litter drill and a humorous stunt called "The Stone Age Band."

Troop 3 of Glendale put on a scout marching drill. These were the outstanding numbers interspersed with minor stunts by the various troops.

It had been hoped that young Douglas Fairbanks could be present but instead he sent a telegram which was read and in which he expressed regret at his inability to attend and tendered his congratulations and good wishes to the council.

The closing of the camp fire was impressive. All scouts present united in reciting the scout oath and prayer to the great Scoutmaster, led by H. B. Robison, and then followed taps by three scout buglers, stationed at different locations and heights.

ORIENTAL LODGE OF L. A. GUEST OF OUR REBEKAHS

A great big success was the dance of the Oriental lodge of Los Angeles, which was the guest of Carnation Rebekahs Saturday night, the Carnations furnishing the hall and the music and patronizing the dance, attended by some 200 guests.

The Oriental colors of red and yellow were carried out in the decoration of the hall. At the proper time the boxes prepared by Rebekahs were auctioned off, bringing about $50. Mrs. Evelyn Hall carried off the first prize with a wonderful box which served as a pedestal for a typical shiek and tent.

The auction was followed by the moon feast, which was celebrated at 12:30.

Tonight Mrs. Rosella Strother, deputy district president, accompanied by District Marshal Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, will make an official visit on Narcissus lodge, Belvidere Gardens.

Tuesday night Mrs. Strothers will make her official visit at Carnation Rebekah lodge.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

In compliance with the recently enacted state law requiring parents to register all children between the ages of 3 and 18 years, a teacher will be delegated to attend to the registration of all children of the district at the local school every afternoon this week from 1 to 3 o'clock.

The local fire truck, with C. Jennings Young, fire warden for this district, was called to Flintridge Saturday afternoon to help control the fire at Devil's Gate dam, which for a time threatened the aristocratic homes in the Flintridge residence section. One hundred and fifty acres were covered by the flames before they were brought under control. The blaze leaped across the road and began to eat into the western limits of the Flintridge Country Club. A number of golfers and Boy Scouts took a hand and after a stiff fight the flames were brought under control. A number of men were left on duty all Saturday night to prevent the flames from breaking out again.

The regular monthly meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association will be held at the school auditorium next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. A number of important subjects of interest to this district will be up for discussion. All members and residents of La Crescenta are urged to be present.

Miss Alma Kruger of New York is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Wildhack of South Los Angeles avenue. Miss Kruger is a member of the "Cat and Canary" company now playing at the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles.

The regular meeting of the La Crescenta Aeolian Music Club was held at the home of Robert Kelso, Mayfield and Los Angeles avenues, last Friday evening. The business session was presided over by the president, Robert Kelso. This was followed by readings of musical events, led by Miss Marguerite Hauber. Arthur Crowell was appointed program director. The next meeting will be held at the home of Waltz Young on South Los Angeles avenue, when the study of the "History of the Piano" will be taken up. Mr. Kelso was charmingly assisted by his mother, Mrs. H. A. Kelso.

The ladies of the societies of the La Crescenta Community church were entertained at the home of Miss Gladys Bickel on West Montrose avenue last Friday afternoon. After the business session readings were given by Mrs. A. H. Best, Mrs. H. A. Kelso and Miss Bickel.

The food sale given at the Wooly grocery on Los Angeles and Honolulu avenues last Saturday by the Service League of the Community Church was a decided success, netting the league $32.50, which was more than enough to finish the $1000 pledged to the building of the Community church now under construction.

Joe Urkuitez of South Los Angeles avenue is among the first of the local hunters to bring home a deer, which he shot in the Adison hills and which weighed 125 lbs.

DR. OTEY MOVES TO NORTH BRAND

Dr. Otey's health studios will occupy the entire floor above the Federal bank at Brand and Wilson. These five suites of rooms have been reconditioned and remodeled especially to suit the needs of this growing institution of osteopathy and the Abrams method.

Dr. Otey has been in Glendale a number of years at Glendale avenue and Broadway and has departmentized his offices with specially trained men in charge of all departments of the work.

The new offices allow of further expansion and the reception room is sufficiently commodious to seat a fair-sized audience for the public health talks given every week during the winter season.

GRASS FIRE NEAR HAPPILAND PARK

Residents living in the region of Happiland Park, were alarmed shortly before noon Saturday, when a brush fire broke out in the vicinity of their homes. A truck from Firehouse No. 1 responded and the blaze was extinguished before it could do any damage.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR VERNE WILSON

Mrs. H. A. Wilson of 125 North Louise entertained Saturday evening at a small dinner party given to celebrate the birthday of her son, Verne Wilson. The smartly appointed table was decorated in a pink and white color scheme which was repeated in the birthday cake illuminated with pink candles. Covers were laid for Miss Clea Jenkinson of Hanford, Cal., who is attending Pomona College; Miss Dorothy Hamilton, Russell Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson and the honor guest. Following the dinner the party took an auto ride.

THE MISSES TODD STRUCK BY AUTO

Misses Ethel and Della Todd, 541 West Broadway, were struck by an automobile driven by L. R. Bidwell of 3188 Perlita avenue, Los Angeles, at the intersection of Cypress and Brand, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, according to police department records, which state the machine was traveling on the wrong side of the street at the time of the accident. One of the young ladies was slightly injured and was taken to the hospital of Dr. Thompson of Burbank for treatment, it is stated.

NEW CANDIDATES FOR RADIO HONORS

The Glendale Serenaders, a new orchestra, will be heard this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, from KFI radiophone station. The members are Mary Sherrick, piano; Milo Sherrick and Wallace Haines, saxophones; Clifford Walcott, banjo; Fred Kattelman, drums.

SCIOTS TO INSTALL FRIDAY NIGHT

SEVENTEEN NEW CHAPTERS O. E. S. TO BE CHARTERED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Seventeen new chapters of the Order of the Eastern Star in this state will be granted their official charters at the annual convention in this city October 16. The convention will continue for four days and delegates from the seventeen new organizations will cast their first vote for grand officers on Wednesday, October 17.

All details are completed here for the convention and special jubilee celebration. Many chapters throughout the state have notified local headquarters that their local organizations will hold special fifty year after celebrations, simultaneously with the convention here.

local organization simultaneously with the convention here.

Delegates from four hundred chapters will attend the convention. The local hospitality committee has organized flying squadron committeees to meet every railroad train at every depot in this city and every steamer arriving from state points. Delegates, members and friends will be directed to their hotels from the railroad depots and docks. Special information bureaus have been arranged for in every hotel taken over by the Eastern Star for the convention.

A varied entertainment program for delegates and visitors has been arranged which will begin with a grand ball on the opening night of the convention. Automobile trips, bay river trips and other features are also arranged for.

HEY, SKINNAY, GLENDALE IS TO HAVE REAL CIRCUS

Glendale is to have a real circus, the first one in several years, and the kiddies as well as their seniors will have plenty of excitement.

The Glendale Pyramid of Sciots is responsible for this good fortune and has signed a contract with Carl Harney's one-ring circus for the week of October 22 to Oct. 27. In addition to the circus there will be a midway of shows, high class in character, which have been presented at Barnum & Bailey's, Sells-Floto and other large circuses. Between the shows, concessions will be interspersed and there will be plenty doing all the time.

The Sciots promise that it will be one of the biggest things that has ever come to Glendale and they have arranged to share it with other organizations. The different nights will be under the auspices of these favored organizations which will participate in the admission receipts.

It will be held in a tent measuring 280 by 60 feet, the exact location of which has not been definitely determined.

Toparch-elect Harry Bennett is enthusiastic over the prospect of big receipts which will be used to finance the expenses of the Sciot band to the Sciot convention to be held in San Diego, November 15.

The final Saturday night show will be given under the auspices of the Community Chest committee.

S. O. S. CLASS HAS ANNUAL BANQUET

The S. O. S. Bible class of the Central Christian church held its annual banquet in the oriental room of the Egyptian Village last Friday evening. The menu consisted of the following: Clam chowder and wafers, hearts of lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, orange sherbet, breaded veal cutlets, O'Brien potatoes, green beans, olives, India relish, French rolls and butter, with coffee to drink, and the final course of pineapple sundae. Everything was delicious and the service faultless.

There were twenty-four members of the S. O. S. class present and its president, Miss Fern Peters, presided. Toasts were given by Lelie Leonard, Naomi Bennett, Evelyn Walker, Garnet Peters, Ina McConnell, Ruby Eubanks and Frances Musser, followed by a splendid talk by the teacher, Mrs. Alton A. Smith. The happy occasion was incidentally the announcement of the engagement of one of the girls, Miss Ruby Eubanks, to Mr. Guy Mize, as at the table the girls noticed the brand new sparkler, which upon inquiry was found to have been received only the evening before.

The delightful evening was concluded by a prophecy read by Miss Rose Nelson.

Other girls who were present and are loyal members of the S. O. S. class include: Beatrice Bolen, Ethel Barton, Ruth Gibbs, Rose Jennings, Lena Le Bar, Alice Mercer, Hazel Meurburg, Ramona Ryan, Lillian Webster, Geraldine Woolard, Madelyn Montgomery, Nell Leggitt, Florence Cowley and Vendetta Crawford.

"WHAT'S THE USE IN IT?"

A few months ago a prominent young man was talking about bear hunting. He is the son of an emigrant who has become wealthy in America through a rough and ready use of his opportunities, and the favorable fortunes of the family sent the boy through college and provided him with silk socks.

"I don't see why anyone should want to hunt, and to kill a bear" he said, and asked: "What's the use in it? Why should one expose himself unnecessarily to the elements? Are not beef and wool cheaper than bear meat and fur?"

That is the sort of sissification which is taking place by wholesale, and which a knowledge of rifle shooting goes a long way to eliminate. The young man has entirely missed the one big point, which is the making of men such as perhaps his father was, and keeping their feet on solid ground. He might be enticed to shoot a rifle a little as a sport, but he probably would deny that the presence of guns in the average man's hands tends toward protection of the law abiding and prevention of crime.—Sportsman's Digest.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The war-torn First Army division will renew memories of its terrific baptism of fire by holding a reunion of 3000 to 4000 of its members during the American Legion National convention here October 15 to 19.

The famous division, organized from regular army units the last of which arrived in France in July, 1917, has planned a program beginning with a reception and dance at the roof garden of the Whitcomb hotel the night of October 15. During the entire week the First division will maintain headquarters at the Whitcomb.

None of the 50 reunions to be held here during the Legion convention will be richer in memories to the "buddies" participating than that of the First division which suffered 25,076 casualties, included 4,419 deaths in action, in the war. After training with the French Chasseurs Alpins in the Gondrecourt area, the first was the initial American division in a sector, the first to fire a shot at the Germans, the first to attack, the first to attempt a raid, the first to capture prisoners, the first to inflict and suffer casualties and the first to be cited singly in general orders.

On Tuesday, October 16, the second day of the Legion convention, the division will march as a unit in the big national ex-service men's parade. The same evening it will hold its formal reunion and banquet at the St. Germain restaurant.

Wednesday, October 17, will be taken up with a boat ride around the bay, visiting the 60 or more fighting ships of the Pacific fleet ordered in for the occasion. Sightseeing trips around the city, October 18 and 19 will complete the get-together.

Truths in Epigram

Is not a patron, my lord, one who looks with unconcern on a man struggling for life in the water, and when he has reached ground encumbers him with help?—Johnson.

JAPAN'S NAVAL POWER

In view of the treaty with Japan, limiting the naval strength of powers having interests on the Pacific, there had not been the slightest occasion to fear hostility from the Japanese. The treaty was made in good faith, and Japan had displayed earnestness in its desire to comply with the terms of it. Suddenly an act of nature devastates the navy of Japan, reducing it on the instant to a point far below the requirements that had been deemed satisfactory by all signatory to the agreement. At once there is the insinuation that the loss sustained by the Japanese is reason for congratulation. Such a view certainly is far from kind and does not seem to be fair.

It is true that Japan has been characterized as one arm of the Asiatic giant that plans to encompass the world, Islam being the other arm. This is the view of the pessimistic. On the other hand there is reason to believe that the Japanese would be glad to keep friendly relations with the people of the Occident. It is not clear what they have in common with the Turks, or the races of North Africa. Wherein might lie their advantages in the advance of the crescent to domination of the civilization, has not been explained yet. Were the hosts of India loosed to sweep the continents and seas, the change in the standard of human activity certainly would not elevate Japan to a station higher than it has won as the associate of well organized peoples.

Despite the duplicity marking diplomacy in general, it is not to be affirmed yet that there is no honor among nations. The United States, for example, could not be imagined as assuming any changed attitude toward Japan because of the change in the potency of the latter to meet aggression. On the contrary it easily might be imagined as resenting any such change on the part of other powers, and feeling itself called upon to interpose on behalf of the Japanese.

THE THIRD DEGREE

Charges are made that an assistant district attorney of Los Angeles county was severely beaten by police engaged in administering the third degree to prisoners. He had the mischance to be mistaken for a prisoner, although present on official business. Police have no right to beat an attache of the district attorney's office. This much will be conceded. But they have no right to beat a prisoner except in self-defense, a proposition that should be conceded as freely.

The "third degree" is an abominable institution. It consists of giving a suspect such rigorous treatment as to induce him to acknowledge guilt. He is subjected to physical brutali[redacted] manner [redacted]ble in his [redacted]onfession. [redacted]ystem was still [redacted]. Certainly it [redacted]an useless, for it is actually vicious; in no sense the instrumentality of justice, and possibly working a great and irreparable wrong against the victim.

To question a suspect is permissible. To question him under conditions that hold out the alternatives of admitting guilt, regardless of the facts, or being tortured, is not permissible. Policemen who rely upon such methods to make out a case against a prisoner, are not fit for performance of their duties, but merit dismissal.

KEEPS AT HIS TASK

President Coolidge declined an invitation to attend a memorial meeting for President Harding November 2. The meeting is to be held in New York. There had been hope that Mr. Coolidge would be present and deliver an address.

The occasion could not but make strong appeal to the busy man in the White House. In his declination he admitted as much, but he added that if he was "to crystalize constructively the policies of President Harding all the time at his disposal between now and the opening of congress would have to be utilized in laborious work."

It is evident that President Coolidge feels that the responsibilities of his position constitute a moral obligation, and that he has no desire to evade any part of them. His character is shown in his attitude towards what many, guided by political motives, would look upon as a great opportunity.

There are some men in public station who seek to forward their own interests by emphasizing their personalities. Mr. Coolidge is different. He is of the type ready to do the duty that comes to hand, not measuring as he does so, the effect upon his prospects, but having in mind nothing but the performance according to the dictates of conscience.

RECALL OF LLOYD GEORGE

Rumors of the recall of Lloyd George are being circulated by the agencies that favor such a move. Apparently they are striving to create a receptive mood for the plan. They do not give any reasons for a recall, but simply announce that demand for it exists. This is working with phychology. Lacking concrete facts, they rely for their purpose, upon a state of mind.

Lloyd George as war premier was more than efficient. He was made by circumstances, the opportunity thrust upon him. After the war he lost favor, largely because of backing the Greek invasion of Turkey, while pretending to have nothing to do with it. The public insisted upon a change in government.

Probably had the ex-premier devoted himself to constructive criticism he could have won back to favor. His course was contrary to this. He did all he could to weaken the power of the ministry that had succeeded his own. His great mistake was in going frankly into yellow journalism. The organ that above all else, is hostile to England, became his vehicle of expression. The fact that it eagerly seized the chance to exploit his views put him in the position of assailing his country. That he had elected to appear in bad company was unfortunate for his standing and for such ambition as he may have entertained to resume his old station.

There seems to be something queer about the state game laws. The hunter is allowed to kill a certain number of deer, but forbidden to transport the trophies of the chase. Not being able to eat a whole deer on the spot, he has no recourse but to abandon it. Perhaps the legislature enacted this provision to take the joy out of slaughter.

Drugs are said to be sold to school children of Los Angeles. Monstrous as the charge seems, the purveyors of these poisons know no restraint of conscience. In Philadelphia a few years ago they were found guilty of precisely the crime mentioned. It is cheering to add that they were sent to the penitentiary and are still busy serving their terms.

Police Chief Vollmer discharged two patrolmen from the force for what he deemed sufficient cause. They were promptly reinstated by the police board. Vollmer believes that discipline is necessary. Evidently his views lack official endorsement.

The inter-allied council has decided, according to recent report, that Greece must pay indemnity to Italy. A few days ago the cables announced a decision exactly to the contrary. Thus the reader is left a choice and may suit himself.

There are periods in almost any man's career when he would rather have a lie told about him than the truth.

A man's opinion of himself doesn't necessarily increase the circumference of his headgear.

THE SYNTHETIC AGE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Did you ever hear of a "synthetic airedale?"

No? Well, neither did I until last evening when an eminent California judge in whose home I was calling said he had one. On investigation the animal proved to be what is commonly called a "near-Airedale," and he was quite respectable at that.

Estella Lawton Lindsey

The name charmed me for I have a "synthetic Boston" and have always been embarrassed to know what to call her. It seems so unkind to call a well meaning animal a "scrub."

While I was smiling to myself thinking of that "synthetic Airedale" I picked up the morning paper and read that we would soon be able to stop at any gas station and fill the flivver with "Synthetic gas," which, after all, should be as easily made and far safer than synthetic gin.

Synthetic perfumes have been developed to a point that makes it impossible for any scent to recognize its origin while we all know that the gild edged row which has for some time been in progress between divers and sundry authors and the moving picture producers had its basis in the objections which the authors had to seeing their compositions appear on the screen not as they had been written and copyrighted but in a hodge podge of stuff which boiled down amounted merely to a synthetic scenario run as the main ingredient of a synthetic screen play.

Peter B. Kyne had his feelings so deeply wounded by seeing some of his stories in this humiliating position that he has sued for $100,000 damages.

But what is the use? When all is said and done this remains a synthetic age and nobody need feel that he can alone and unaided get even a one act vaudeville skit across.

The flappers are sold to synthetic complexions; synthetic leather holds out the promise that some glad day animals may with safety wear their own skins and synthetic milk may soon take the place of that which Bossy has reluctantly yielded to thieving man.

Maybe some day there will be no need to grow or search for anything. The synthetic chemist will sit in his tower and supply all the needs of even the editorials written by benighted newspaper folks who can't get hold of anything more original than synthetic ideas.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Mary Kelly got married again last week and it served George right, George being the late Kelly, always referred to in our newspaper as "the rising young merchant." He was one of the most jealous men I ever knew. If his grave is provided with turning facilities, George is revolving like an electric fan. Yet it isn't two months since Mary came into our house and wept her heart out on Mrs. Pilgrim's shoulder.

"I miss George so," said Mary. "I think of him all the time."

It was all true—I'm sure—and yet that was the day she had accepted the proffered hand of another rising young merchant. I was inclined to be nasty and cynical about it, but Mrs. Pilgrim brought me up short.

"Will you tell me, then," she asked, "what the poor girl is to do?"

I hadn't thought of that. The truth is that the late George Kelly was distinctly sultanic in his attitude toward his pretty Mary. No other man must look at her—she didn't want them to, either, except as any pretty woman likes to have the fact recognized.

And George would not deign to share with her any knowledge of his business. He gave her the money she asked without a murmur. But when he died she did not know whether she was rich or poor.

"If she had known anything about George's business we might have saved her," said the lawyer.

But a good part of George's records were in George's head. Much of his assets could have been realized on if Mary had known what they were and where they were. Before she discovered her true financial condition was that she was bankrupt.

"She had to marry," said Mrs. Pilgrim, with the sturdy common sense of her sex. "She couldn't help herself."

Perhaps not. But George could have helped her if he had taken her into his confidence when he was alive. The tragedy is that Mary is an unwilling—even if a resigned—bride.

I hope George knows.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

The war to end wars did what wars usually do.

It sowed the seeds for future wars.

And the only reason perhaps there is not a worse condition in Europe today is that the nations are too exhausted to engage in another general war.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Wars destroy.

They do not build anything but debts and cripples and poverty.

The great war did not build anything.

It prevented something for the time being.

That was the domination of the world by a great military power.

But it did not establish any enduring principle on any sound basis.

Because the nations that participated in it were naturally looking to their own futures.

And none of them was greatly altruistic.

All of them were seeking material advantage.

Except the United States.

And perhaps the United States was mistaken, or its principal representative was mistaken, in an estimate of the forces dominating the peace conference.

And surrendered too many matters of principle in order to gain individual gratification or glory.

It is difficult for the individual to be altogether unselfish.

Or altruistic.

Men do not usually work out of pure altruism.

They work for wages, for personal advantage, for the gathering of property, the savings that shall insure ease and comfort and safety for the family.

That is the way with nations.

They are willing to profess great general principles.

But they have seldom been willing in times of peace to make great national sacrifices.

They look to the future.

To national wealth.

To the security of diplomats and statesmen and rulers.

* * *

Europe is being ruled today by the elemental passions of primitive people.

Or, we might say, of all people.

Because after the thin veneer of us is stripped off we are primitive.

Very primitive indeed.

The ruling things in Europe are:

Fear.

Hatred.

Greed.

Ambition.

All of the evil and dark things of life.

And yet the things that have largely made the wars of the world and shaped its destiny.

* * *

When we shall have gotten fear and hatred and greed and ambition out of individuals as well as nations, we shall have done the thing that will end wars.

And until we do, we shall have the seeds that grow into wars.

We are traveling the pathway toward better times perhaps.

But the change of the spirit of men and of nations is a slow thing.

It has been relatively small in thousands of years.

And we must not expect too much at once.

Songs of the Poets

Make Believe—By Alice Cary

Kiss me, though you make believe;
Kiss me, though I almost know
You are kissing to deceive:
Let the tide come one moment flow
Backward ere it rise and break,
Only for poor pity's sake!

Give me of your flowers one leaf;
Give me of your smiles one smile,
Backward roll this tide of grief
Just a moment, though, the while
I should feel and almost know
You are trifling with my woe.

Whisper to me sweet and low;
Tell me how you sit and weave
Dreams about me, though I know
It is only make believe!
Just a moment, though 'tis plain
You are jesting with my pain.

THE CREATION OF HUNGER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN THE realm of the mind, the greatest genius is not the one who can supply the most food, but the one that can create the most hunger.

The best teacher is not the one that can supply the most information, but the one who can make the pupil want to be informed.

Even in the matter of character, that soul which is the most irreproachable and righteous is not the most commendable, but that one is blessed most who "hungers and thirsts after righteousness."

The good writer is the one who makes you want to read what he writes.

The good speaker is the one who makes you anxious to hear him through, and the good actor or playwright is one who "keeps up the interest."

The prime requisite is Imagination, the ability to enter into the hearer's or reader's mind and tell him the thing he craves to know.

Most books are uninteresting, for the same reason that a table set with ill-cooked viands is unappetizing.

As the first concern of a cook should be to prepare food so that we crave it, so the first concern of an author should be to guage the reader's intellectual hunger and give him something that shall appease it.

Education is not the collection of knowledge; it is the development of taste.

The civilized man excels the savage more in the abundance and variety of his Wants than in the pile of his Possessions.

Fiction is the most effective form of literature, simply because it appeals to curiosity, the most primitive, strong and universal of the mind's appetites. The main reason for reading any story is to see how it comes out.

Hence, if you are a preacher, your main business is not to tell people how to be good, but to make them want to be good.

If you are no Hunger Maker, you are not a good Teacher.

If you cannot make people want to look at the picture you have painted, you are no Artist, no matter how good your technique, how burning your enthusiasm, and how perfect your adherence to the standards.

Any government is a failure, unless it gives the majority of the citizens the kind of rule they desire.

The very gist of the Prohibition question now in America is not so much whether or not Prohibition is beneficial to the country as whether the people of the country desire it.

Evolution, development, education, the progress of Business and of Religion have created a Hunger for Order, Health, Sobriety and Efficiency; and this hunger, as most people look at it, has been strong enough to oust the cruder Hunger for alcoholic stimulants.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

COAL SUBSTITUTES' INNING

[Chicago Tribune]

Every coal strike or threat of coal strike gives the promoters and salesmen of all these substitutes an invaluable selling talk. They would make the country largely independent of coal if all were developed to the maximum. Nothing tends to promote their development so rapidly as the repeated threats of coal men to deprive the country of fuel. When they are properly developed, both miners and operators will be left out in the cold. And they will have only themselves to blame.

DEPENDS ON THE GIRL

[St. Paul Pioneer Press]

In the absence of any fixed standards of right and wrong in the matter of dress perhaps the safest and most objective test is the esthetic. Have girls a right to wear overalls if they wish? A wise person, living in the year 1923, will be very cautious in his reply. He will refuse to answer the question at all in this form. But if he is then asked whether girls can wear overalls, he will not hesitate. He will answer yes and no. Some can and some can't.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Some novelist ought to get hold of the specially fine "long arm of coincidence" that has invaded a branch of the superior court of Los Angeles county. Speaking generally, the arm of coincidence is a valuable prop for the writer of fiction to keep handy, but seldom is the member equipped for such valiant service as the current specimen.

HENRY JAMES

One of the witnesses in a murder trial, so the records seem to show, was Harry A. Smith. He swore that he was present at the commission of the crime. Then came a second Harry A. Smith, swearing that the first was not on the scene at all, but that he (No. 2) had seen it all. The fact transpired that they were swearing about different crimes, but about the same individual, who had been accused of only a single crime.

It is plain enough that if the defendant was killing somebody at some spot distant from the alleged crime with which he is charged, he must be acquitted.

The coincidence of two Harry A. Smiths may be passed over as trivial, but the coincidence of two simultaneous murders, widely separated, perpetrated at the same instant, and by the same man, is enough to excite interest.

Of course, there may be the explanation that one of the Smiths is a liar, but this is too easy to be acceptable to minds prone to speculate on the strangeness of circumstances.

A dictator may be a good thing, or a bad thing, for a country. All depends upon the initial condition of the country. It cannot be imagined, however, that two dictators, dictating opposing policies, ever will succeed in promoting unity.

Just at present Germany faces the prospect of having a pair of dictators. It easily might face a more cheering prospect.

The Pasadena Tournament of Roses has done something great in advance this year in getting the football team of the navy to participate in the big game.

The young officers of the navy can play football as well as they can fight. Many Californians who bet on the home team against such opponents will be expressing local pride rather than hope. Still, the navy chaps won't come out here and find unworthy competitors, they may be sure of that.

There is a story about a huge meteorite that fell in Arizona many years ago. The story says that efforts are being to dig it out, the inspiring theory being that it is stuffed with diamonds.

Doubtless the writer of the story was stuffed with something. Many meteorites have fallen, and been recovered for museum purposes, but never a one containing a diamond.

Mustapha Kemal is not having a wholly pleasant time in Turkey. Possibly some of the full-blooded Turks resent the Semitic strain in his blood. When somebody drops poison into his coffee, he declines to drink the coffee, hangs the guest at the front door, and deems that he has balked European diplomacy once more.

Just now the trouble seems to be more serious, for the element wishful to cast the gentleman from power either is growing, or making more noise.

The expulsion of W. E. D. Stokes from the news column seems beyond hoping for unless the authorities thoughtfully place him where his activities shall suffer restriction.

Some people like publicity, but never to be mentioned save in connection with an episode indicating baseness, hardly could be pleasing even to the type in question. Perhaps after while Stokes will get enough, and subside.

Those who know Commander Calhoun, of one of the wrecked naval craft, will appreciate his conduct at the investigation as that of a gentleman of finest type. Twenty of the lost seamen were from his vessel, and recital of their bravery as they went down to death stirred his emotions deeply.

As to the cause of the disaster, he placed the blame on Captain Watson, and yet paid him an impressive tribute as an officer and a friend.

A cultured Englishman, native of Constantinople, and long resident in that city, was asked recently as to his opinion of missionary work in Turkey. He replied that he did not believe a Turk ever had been converted to Christianity. Then he called attention to the narrowed field under the present Turkish government. All foreign schools save Roberts college have been closed, and attendance there has dwindled. The Turkish language is the only one permitted to be used.

It is interesting to reflect that at about the time he was saying this, advocates of mission work abroad were gathered in convention, discussing means of extending their influence, and expressing high hopes of the good to be accomplished even in Turkey by devoted young men and women trained for the work.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A CHILD'S HAPPINESS

"I am determined that whatever comes or goes, my children are going to have a happy childhood. Happiness is what we're living for. If we can't have it what's the use of living? The children are entitled to at least that," said father.

"At least that?" At most, that. Happiness is such an illusive thing! It's always just ahead. We missed it by a flutter of an eyelid. It was there, and it was gone. Ah, there it is; we'll have to turn the corner!

And we chase it and coax it and trap it and only to find our hands still empty and our quarry just ahead.

How shall we give to the children what we have to so earnestly search for ourselves? Can we do it all? How much can we do? Perhaps the best we can do for them is to keep from doing what we know will make them unhappy and allow them to gather what of happiness they can for themselves.

It looks as though happiness had as many pockets as a fairy godmother and that we can open any and all of them if we hold the strings. But finding the strings is a different search, the sort that the witches give to the youth in search of the charm that will give him the king's daughter.

But here is one of them, if you will just make the effort to lay hold of it and not mind how it pulls you about. It isn't as hard as it looks and it isn't as easy as you'd wish. Just allow the child to do what he is doing without tension.

Understand? Lift the pressure of your mind from his and let him go free. He is happy, he has a few minutes in that land of happiness he is searching for, so long as he feels no tension.

Sonny was dressed in rompers and sweater, blue socks and shiny brown shoes, given his pail and shovel and pans and sent to play. "Sonny," cautioned the mother, her voice strained in earnestness. "Listen!" "Take care that you don't scrub your shoes. They are such pretty new ones."

Sonny halted on the step and said, just as earnestly, "Mother, I do wish we could buy some shoes at the second hand store and then I wouldn't have to worry about the new ones."

You see Sonny was bargaining for happiness. He had his feet on its boundaries, but the tension of the new shoes was holding him back. He could only view that land from the distance of those new shoes.

We can't give happiness to a child. We haven't it to give. But we can take the pressure off him and let him be happy now and then. He will do the rest himself.

DAMAGED

GRADUATION AND RALLY DAY, FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

An attendance of 464 out of 527 membership was the record made by the First Baptist Sunday school, Sunday. The greatest rally day in the history of that Sunday school was observed on that occasion. All departments were filled to overflowing and the rooms were taxed to capacity, proving conclusively that a new church and Sunday school rooms are absolutely necessary. Incidentally, plans for the new edifice are well under way.

The feature of the morning was the elaborate program given by the graduation classes of the various departments of the school. There were 74 graduated from the five departments, and the diplomas were distributed by Roy L. Kent, who had charge of the exercises of the morning. As each department was announced, the superintendent of that department took charge of the exercises of her pupils, this producing a very pleasing effect.

The first class to graduate consisted of the little tots from the cradle roll, who went bounding into the beginners' department. Those little girls and boys sang one of their class songs which "went over big" with those present. Mrs. M. B. Wanicott, superintendent of the department, had charge of this part of the program and gave a very enlightening talk on just what the cradle roll is doing in preparing the children for the Sunday school. Those graduated from this department were Norma Lipold, Danny Jordan, Owea Fern Cooper, Jean Richards, Marion Abby, Virginia Stabler, Geral-Dockers, Barbara Weir, June Perkins, Ruth Kilpatrick, Ruth Nicholson, Barbara Feinstein, Ruth Sheldon, Jane Circle, Melvin West, Gerald Bentley and Rosemary Walker.

Following this part of the program came the graduating of the "promotion" class from the beginners to the primary department. Mrs. Jean Lore, superintendent, was in charge of this department's exercises. There were recitations and a song. The graduates were Dorothy Ladd, Elden Dean Wanicott, Gordon Bell, Anita Shockley, Irene Dill, Dorothy Sawyer and Constance McConnelly.

Next came the class that graduated from primary to junior department. Special numbers were given by the children of this department, this part of the program being under the management of Mrs. J. L. Gray, superintendent. The graduates from this department were Pauline Elizabeth Hatch, Florence Viola Folke, Frances May Sawyer, Lyle Elwood Gray, Roger Wynn Donaldson, Jack Edward Bungay, John Alfred Whittaker, John Beverly Rich, Tom Turton Perry, Ethelyn Mae Kent, Marian Elizabeth Maxwell, Lois Muriel Nelson, Vadis Loomis, Helen Holmberg, William Shockley and Robert La Compte.

Mrs. E. E. Ford, superintendent of the junior department, had charge of the graduation of the class from the junior to the intermediate department. The class included Mildred Allen, Gladys Higgs, Marian Hosking, Catherine Stewart, Louise Stewart, Virginia Adams, Mae McElman, Eula Cooper, Rose Parker, Ethelyn Feishman, Lois Detwiler, Billy Gray, Joe Dimmett, Grigsby Hobson, Herbert Meehan, Arthur Kilpatrick and Kenneth Foulke.

The final class to graduate was that from the intermediate department to seniors or the highest department of the school. Mrs. O. L. Howard was in charge of that part of the program. The class included Virginia Abbey, Dorothy Allen, Gratia Boynton, Pauline Rich, Milie Hirashima, Eloise Howard, Pauline Shockley, Myrtle Elwood, Grace Goodfellow, Mary S. Sawyer, Ruth Eddings, Gladys Jordan, Ruth Detwiler, and Frances Tarr.

During yesterday afternoon the finance committee of the church made its every member canvass among the membership, the idea being to have every member of the organization giving something toward the support of the church.

In the evening Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the church, preached from the subject, "Diety and Dust" and special music was furnished by the choir.

"TARES AMONG THE WHEAT" REV. KRINKEL'S THEME

Rev. Henry O. Kringel of the Zion Lutheran congregation delivered a sermon Sunday morning on Matthew 13: 24-30, choosing for his theme, "The Tares Among the Wheat." A good audience was present. The speaker said in part:

"In the parable before us, Christ means to illustrate the state and condition of His church here upon earth. This is plainly to be seen from His own interpretation of the tares among the wheat. He says: 'He that soweth the good seed is the Son of Man; the field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one; the enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.'

"So, in the light of Christ's own interpretation, the world appears as a vast field. Upon this field Jesus sows the good seed of His divine Word. That seed is not sown in vain. Chidlren of God are produced, true Christians. Meanwhile, the devil also sows his pernicious seed in between, which produces ungodliness and children of wickedness. These are intermingled with the true Christians, like the tares among the wheat. And in this mixed state and condition the church shall remain unto the end of the world.

"Let us consider that upon earth the church appears in a condition resembling tares among wheat, and how we are to conduct ourselves in view thereof.

"What is the outward appearance of the church upon this earth? Christ says, 'But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appear the tares also.' Behold, then, such is the outward appearance of the church upon earth. It resembles a field where the tares are mixed among the wheat.

"This has always been the case, and thus shall it remain unto the end of the world. Was not Cain, who killed his brother Abel, in the first church, the church of Adam? In the small church saved in the ark, the church of Noah, was there not a black sheep, Ham? And in the New Testament, when the holy apostles founded the Christian church and organized Christian congregations, beginning at Jerusalem and thence extending their missionary labors to the different parts of the world, were these churches pure and faultless, and did the apostles never find cause for complaint?

"But how are we to conduct ourselves in view thereof? In our Gospel we read: 'So the servants came and said unto him, 'Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? From whence then hath it tares?' He said unto them, "An enemy hath done this.' The servants said: 'Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?' But he said, 'Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together till the harvest; and in the time of the harvest I will say unto the reapers, 'Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn.'

"How often does a person hear the remark, 'I don't join, because there are hypocrites in the church'? This is a grave mistake. Must you rest your soul's salvation upon the righteousness and piety of men? Must you not rest your soul's salvation upon the infallible Word of God alone? If, therefore, you are seeking the true church, it is only where the Word of God is taught in all its truth and purity. Where this is being done, there the good seed is sown, which must and invariably will produce fruit for eternal life.

"Still, are we not to mind the evils which occur in the church? Are we to be indifferent about them? Verily not. The members of a Christian congregation should be watchful and wakeful to prevent, as much as possible, the enemy from sowing his tares among the wheat. They should admonish one another to be steadfast in the faith of the Son of God who died on the cross for the sins of men, that 'whosoever believeth in Him, shall not perish but have everlasting life.'"

STUDY OF ACTS CONCLUDED BY BROOKS' CLASS

The account of St. Paul's life as recorded in the book of Acts was brought to a close by Keith L. Brooks at the city council rooms Sunday morning at 9:30, when he addressed the Presbyterian Brotherhood Bible class.

Paul had been declared innocent of crime under the Roman law by Festus the governor and innocent under Jewish law by King Agrippa, but had made an appeal to Cæsar and this could not be recalled. He, therefore, must be sent to Rome and this was in accordance with the purpose of God already revealed to Paul, for it was God's plan that he should bear witness to the gospel at Rome. The Roman government was thus made to pay all of Paul's traveling expenses.

Paul perceived that the course the seamen were taking would be fraught with great danger, and although himself not an experienced boatman he did not hesitate to warn them as God had led him to do. There are times when a praying Christian may know more than the prayerless expert could ever know. It is not always wise to trust to experts or follow the opinion of the majority. The sailors looked on Paul as a pessimist. Worldly men insist on being guided by human prudence. Men look upon second causes not knowing the God who is back of them. What Paul was in this ship the Christian man should be in the world. If he knows God he may be the true captain of any situation.

The terrific storm came as Paul predicted, and for days the boat drifted with no star to guide and all hope of being saved was given up by the sailors. This is the experience of many people; they have no light, no guiding star, they just drift. God has to take everything away from them in order to get their attention to His divine will. If he left them so much as a cane they would hobble on by themselves, so it is often kind of Him to take everything away even and assured him that he should safely reach Rome and that all lives would be saved, but the boat should be lost. Paul speaking to the sailors said, "Be of good cheer for I believe God." This is the secret of abiding peace. Nothing can make a trusting Christian blue. He is God's man to cheer others in the time of darkness. Paul's cheerfulness was contagious.

The twenty-eighth chapter tells the story of how the men were washed up by the waves upon the shore of the island of Malta. Here he is in a strange island tossed up by the waves to do God's work for a time among a strange people and he never would have landed there except for a wreck at sea. Even the stormy winds fulfilled God's commission. Paul preached the gospel to the barbarians on this island and many who were sick were healed. All this was the blessing that resulted from a shipwreck.

After a time Paul proceeded to Rome, and two whole years are condensed into one verse of scriptur which says, "Paul dwelt two years in his own hired house and received all that came unto him, preaching the kingdom of God and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ." Thus Paul stuck to his text to the end. Tradition has it that Paul was liberated after a successful trial but later put to death by Nero in the persecution that arose against Christians in 64 A. D.

OPENING OF THEOSOPHICAL HALL

The formal opening of the new quarters of the Glendale Theosophical lodge will occur this evening at 113 South Orange street at 7:45. Rev. Irving S. Cooper of Los Angeles will speak on "What is Modern Theosophy?" Rev. Cooper is a popular speaker and it is hoped the public will avail itself of this opportunity to hear him.

Mrs. Florence Gobelet will sing and Miss Florence Brown and Master Gurdon Wattles will play piano solos.

HUGGINS LEADS TEAM IN THIRD WORLD'S SERIES

McGraw Enters the Big Series For The Seventh Time

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Miller Huggins, diminutive manager of the New York Yankees, will lead his men this season in their third successive attempt to win the world's baseball championship.

Though his personality has been overshadowed by the aggregation of Yankee stars, regarded as one of the greatest in diamond history, Huggins has earned a large share of the credit attached to the achievement of capturing three straight American league pennants.

In 1921 and again in 1922, when his club won pennants but lost in the world's series to the New York Giants, Huggins was made the target of criticism by many baseball experts. They said Huggins was not strict enough with his men, that he could not rule them, that they did as they pleased.

Cleveland gave the Yankees a hard fight for the pennant in 1921. The St. Louis Browns made a close race of it last year but this season the Yankees have won by a margin that leaves no doubt of their superiority.

Huggins' men have worked together in winning their third pennant. They played as a team, not the set of individual stars they seemed in 1921 and 1922. Babe Ruth, incorrigible as a 10-year old schoolboy for two years, has been Huggins' greatest player this year. The pitching staff has been unequalled by any other in either league.

Huggins has never won a world's series, but he is confident that he will enter the winning lists this year.

John McGraw of the Giants and Connie Mack of the Athletics each have won three world's series, more than any other manager. McGraw won with the Giants against Mack's Athletics in 1905 and in 1921 and 1922 the Giant leader triumphed over Huggins' Yankees. Mack's Athletic won the series of 1910 from Frank Chance and the Chicago Cubs and in 1911 defeated McGraw's Giants. In 1913 Mack again won from McGraw. Frank Chance won two series with the Cubs, defeating the Detroit Americans, led by Hughey Jennings in 1907 and 1908. Bill Carrigan led the Boston Americans to victory in 1915 and 1916, vanquishing the Philadelphia Nationals in the first series and Brooklyn in the other.

McGraw has led his team into action in more world's series than any other pilot, battling last season for the premier diamond title for the seventh time. Mack engaged in five series.

HERE IS THE WAY THEY DID IT IN THE 1922 SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The world's series of 1922 provided one of the great "dope upsets" of championship history, the New York Giants defeating the New York Yankees in five games. The Giants won four and one game was tied.

Rated greater and more powerful than the Giants because of their pitching staff, the American league pennant winners were made favorites, despite the fact that they had been defeated by the Giants in 1921.

In the first game with Art Nehf, of the Giants, and "Bullet Joe" Bush, of the Yankees, being opposite pitchers, the Giants won 3 to 2, scoring all their runs in the eighth inning. The second game, which went ten innings, ended in a 3-3 tie. Bob Shawkey pitched for the Yankees and was opposed by Jess Barnes.

The Nationals then won three straight games and the series. John Scott, in a remarkable pitching exhibition, shut out the Yankees, whose pitcher was Waite Hoyt, 3 to 0, in the third game of the series. Hugh McQuillan won the fourth game for the Giants, 4 to 3, outpitching Carl Mays. Nehf again defeated Bush in the deciding game, 5 to 3.

QUAKERS TRIM SAILORS, CARD FROSH VICTORS

The Whittier college footballers' silent signals from a shift formation scuttled the football team from the good ship Arizona and the sailors went down to a 5 to 0 defeat in a practice game Saturday. The Poets played a close game, making yards seemingly at will through the heavy navy line. The visitors made their first downs but twice, and at no time was the Quaker goal threatened.

Coach Hunt's Sanford University freshmen scored a 54 to 0 victory over the San Diego High school eleven in the first game of the season here Saturday. The southern prep school stars were slightly heavier than the Cardinals, but were unable to handle the slippery first-year backs. Stanford's line proved a stone wall to the visitors, and they made first downs but three times, and these on passes.

GLENDALE K. C. DEFEATS WILLIAM LANE BALL TEAM

The Glendale K. of C.'s showed their strength yesterday by giving the William Lane outfit a 9 to 8 licking at Glendale. Both clubs started by scoring heavily, but after Pitchers Bacon and Jones settled down the large crowd was treated to a real contest. Dall and Bacon starred for the winners, while Jack Morgan looked good for the Lane crew. The score:

ATHLETIC CLUB DROPS GAME TO EAST FIRST TEAM

The Glendale Athletic Club baseball team went down to defeat before the East First Street merchants of Los Angeles at Happiland Park, Verdugo Woodlands. 8 to 5 was the final score. Tommy Morgan, on the mound for the locals, pitched a great game, but the East Siders were a trifle too sly for him.

This is the first game the Athletics have dropped in the last eleven contests. Because of their unusual record they have had difficulty in inducing other teams to come out to Happiland to play them. For that reason they will go on the road for a while beginning next Sunday. The score:

ANGELS DROP TWO GAMES TO SOLONS, 11-5 AND 7-4

Bees and Seals Divide; Oaks Wallop Ducks; Suds Trounce Vernon

Los Angeles dropped two ball games to Sacramento yesterday. Scores were 11 to 5, and 7 to 4. As the score indicates, the Sacs ran all over the Angels in the first pastime. Shea pitched for the winners, while Jones started for Los Angeles. Before the game was finished Thomas, Wallace and Hanna all took their turn on the mound to try to stop the slaughter.

The second game was not so bad, but still it was not so good. Chief Yellowhorse opposed Doc Crandall. Before the game was over Archie Thornton, recently signed from U. S. C., was pitching for the Angels. The score:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.— After scoring an easy victory over San Francisco, 5 to 1, with a collection of home runs; Salt Lake dropped a 10-inning contest 6 to 5. The outcome of the two games gave Salt Lake the series between the two teams four out of seven.

PORTLAND, Oct. 1.—Darkness ended an unusual double-header between Portland and Oakland after the visitors finished batting in the eighth inning. Behind the pitching of Mails the Oaks tincanned to an 18 to 2 victory in the first game. Portland won the second, scoring nine runs to six for the Oaks. There were 89 hits and runs in the two contests.

SEATTLE, Oct 1.—Seattle made it six out of seven for the series by winning both games from Vernon yesterday, 13 to 3, and 6 to 2. Elmer Jacobs and Fred Blake pitched remarkable ball, the latter going in at the third inning of the second game and twirling a no-hit, no-run game the rest of the distance, Jacobs struck out nine and Blake seven.

Bears Look Good

Will the 49 to 0 defeat the University of California administered to St. Mary's College Saturday quiet the cries of those who say that the Golden Bear is a weak animal this year? We are of the opinion that it will not. The born calamity howler lets nothing stop his cries of woe. Even on the field of victory, just after the battle, there were those who were not convinced that the Blue and Gold was a real football team. A dispatched from Berkeley, published in a Los Angeles paper yesterday, stated: "The score is big enough to satisfy almost anyone who is satisfied with less than a slaughter, but still some of the customers went away wagging their heads and saying that the Golden Bear is not what he used to be."

We cannot understand the reasoning process of those who made such statements. It seems to us that seven touchdowns, each converted afterward is evidence of a fairly strong scoring team. Then the Berkeley defense must have been at least passable to prevent the Saints from scoring. The excuse is offered that the St. Mary's boys were simply outclasses, that they were not real football players. Be that as it may, the Saints put up their game and went down to a fair and square defeat. Even the Saints in the style they played Saturday are better than some would have us believe California was in the Alumni game last week.

The California line and backfield worked in splendid fashion, and began to show signs of the real team work that characterizes the Andy Smith football machines. The team that finished for the Bears was not the same team that started. By the opening of the last quarter an army of fresh subs was playing for the Blue and Gold. These subs did their part, piling up three touchdowns in the final period. All of which goes to show that Smith's system of developing reserve strength is going to be of great value this year. One week from Saturday the Bears will play the Olympic Club, and on October 20 they will open the conference season against the Oregon Aggies. By that time it will be safe to say that the Golden Bear will be in his true form, and that those who are looking to see a weaker University of California football team this year will be disappointed.

Trojans Not So Good

The showing made by the University of Southern California against the California Institute of Technology Saturday at Bovard Field is pleasing to the Trojan fans. To begin with, the U. S. C. eleven did not show the class that it was expected to. This may be because some of the trick plays were not used for fear of scouts, but nevertheless the Caltech squad held them to three touchdowns. On the offensive the Cardinal and Gold did not show that flash that it should, while on the defensive it was fairly good the first half, but weakened in the latter period. True, the second string men were shot in toward the last of the game, but if they were not able to keep the Engineers from scoring it does not speak very well for Elmer Henderson's reserve strength. The manner in which his subs showed up in the final quarter was a marked contrast to the way Andy Smith's second men acquitted themselves in their struggle. And after all the reserve strength has a great deal to do with the victory of defeat of a team in the final analysis.

Look Out or Caltech and Whittier

That the Southern California Conference race will be a hot scramble this season was demonstrated Saturday by the showing two of the teams made in practice tilts. The California Institute of Technology, although defeated by University of Southern California, put up a wonderful game. The Engineers held the Trojans to three touchdowns, and scored on the Cardinal and Gold aggregation to boot. That Caltech will be a tough customer for the other teams this season is an undisputed fact. Occidental will have a real scrap on her hands if she expects to wallop the Engineers. Captain Hollis Moyse of the Technicians, a Glendalian and former star of the local high school eleven, promises to be the real luminary of the Engineers.

Whittier College surely is due to spring a big surprise this year. Another article on this page today deals with the strength of the Poet team. By their 58 to 0 victory over the U. S. S. Arizona Saturday, the Quakers showed themselves to be a real football team. They will have to be reckoned with not lightly in figuring the Conference race this year.

DISTINGUISHING THE BLACK FOX

The true black fox is black all over with the exception of the tip of the tail which is white, but I will say that these animals are very rare indeed. The silver, or silver-gray, is practically the same color save that the back and shoulders are shot with more or less gray hairs, the less light hairs there are, the more valuable the pelt. Foxes that have a very small amount of these gray hairs are classed as black. The cross fox is a mixture of the dark fox and the ordinary red one, rusty-colored patches being visible at different points, especially on the shoulders and rump. As in the case of the silver, the more black on the cross fox the greater his value.—Sportsman's Digest.

MINK RAISING IS PROFITABLE

Large number of mink can be raised in a moderate sized enclosure. Some years ago the writer visited some of the ferret raisers near New London, Ohio, and was surprised to learn that as many as one thousand ferrets were raised on a single "ranch" and in a building only about 15 feet wide and 100 feet long. Each female ferret and her young occupying only about 2 by 4 feet. Some of the methods used by the ferret raisers could no doubt be taken advantage of by the mink, marten and other fur animal raiser.—Sportsman's Digest.

TROJANS DFFEAT CALTECH 18 TO 7 IN TOUGH SCRAP

Engineers Score on U. S. C. in Last Quarter

By the score of 18 to 7 the U. S. C. Trojans defeated Caltek on Bovard field Saturday. The whole game was a surprise. It demonstrated several things, among them that the Trojans will have to do some mighty hard work before they develop a team that will defeat the University of California, and also that the Caltek eleven will be one of the most formidable in the Southern California Conference this year.

Henderson used his regular varsity eleven in the first half and sent in a whole new team for the second half. It was the regular squad that did all the scoring for the Trojans, the second eleven having a hard time keeping the Engineers from scoring more than one touchdown.

Henderson sent his regular eleven to the showers at the end of the first half and started his second squad, which was in hot water and on the defense during most of the second half. In the final quarter the Engineers began working passes on the Trojans. One of these forward passes, from Groat to Herrington put the ball on the U. S. C. 10-yard line, and another, Groat to Capt. Holly Moyse, was good for a touchdown. The Caltek stands went wild when Moyse snagged the ball behind the Trojan goal line, for a touchdown against the Trojans was the same to them as a victory over any team.

The Trojans kicked off to the Caltek 30-yard line to open the game. U. S. C. was penalized 10 yards for off-side on the first two plays. Then a pass to Goldsmith and a buck by Groat made it first down. Caltek then punted. The Trojans took the ball to the Caltek 10-yard line where they were held for downs. After a couple of fumbles and an exchange of punts the Trojans got the ball in midfield, from where they steam-rollered their way down the field to a touchdown, Campbell going over. In the second period the Trojans managed to score a pair of touchdowns, Campbell and Otto Anderson going over.

The starting line-ups follow:

CALTECH (7)		U. S. C. (18)

BIRD SLATED TO MEET McGLOFLIN IN LOCAL BOUT

Les Marston, local boxing promoter, has announced that Jim Bird and McGloflin will be the participants in the main bout of the boxing bouts to be staked October 16 in Hahn's Hall on North Brand.

Bird is a Glendale boy, but has never before done his stuff before the fans of this city. He has fought at Vernon, Hollywood and other places, and Glendale fans are anxious to see him in action. He weighs 175 pounds, and is a genuine scrapper.

McGloflin resides in Burbank, but hails from the east, where he has done considerable fighting. He weighs 176, and is fast on his feet. Participants in the preliminary bouts will be announced in a short time, states Marston.

BOXING IS NO MORE AT U. OF SOUTHERN CAL.

With the opening of the new term at the University of Southern California, the administration has announced that intercollegiate boxing contests will not be entered by that institution. This action was taken, according to the authorities, to keep the university in line with the recently announced policy of the Methodist church, which has begun a campaign against prize-fighting.

It is also stated that the wrong kind of sportsmanship is often shown at such contests, and that there is too much of the personal element entering into the boxing matches.

S. B. U. C. VARSITY WINS FROM FROSH BY CLOSE SCORE

Quite a battle raged out at Moore field Saturday. When the dust cleared away after the final whistle the Southern Branch varsity squad had defeated the freshmen of the same institution by a score of 7 to 6.

The Frosh slipped their tally over in the third quarter, but were unable to convert. In the last few minutes of play the varsity scored a touchdown and converted with a fair kick.

Both teams lacked pep. They played sloppy football, fumbling the ball at intervals. No passing was attempted by either team, although there was plenty of kicking.

The showing made by the cub varsity was not so good. That Gordon White and his marvelous toe will be missed this season was evidenced in this struggle. The kicking for the varsity was very poor. It seems that Loren Peak, veteran of two seasons ago who was not eligible last year has not regained his punting ability so far this season. The cub frosh looked like a fair team, and promises a real future for Southern Branch football.

This is the first appearance of the cub varsity, and although they did not play a good game, Coach Jimmy Cline is not discouraged. He states that he has some rather good individual material, but that it will take several weeks of careful training before it is whipped into proper shape for conference games. The line up at the start of the game was as follows:

VARSITY		FRESHMEN
Bishop	L.E.	Rosser
Westcott (c)	L.T.	Stanley
Hollingsworth	L.G.	Gage
Collins	C.	(c) Hastings
Moirine	R.G.	Burla
Jennings	R.T.	McMoore
Bresee	R.E.	Murphy
Persons	Q.	Martin
Jones	L.H.	Blackburn
Haralson	R.H.	O'Neil
Peake	R.B.	Barnett

GOLDEN BEARS RUN RIOT WITH SAINTS' ELEVEN

California Rolls Up 49 to 0 Score on St. Mary's

California's Golden Bears clean-up up the St. Mary's College eleven at Berkeley Saturday by a 49 to 0 score. The Golden Bears played a great game, showing class in both the line and backfield. By the end of the game Andy Smith had his entire second team on the field, and the fresh California reserves wore the Saints out.

St. Mary's made its only flash in that second period when Grant made first downs twice and O'Rourke caught Grant's pass. But the good work was all wiped out when O'Rourke put on his slugging match and his team was penalized thirty yards.

It was in the fourth quarter that the Bears ran wild, making three touchdowns and being on their way for a fourth when the game ended. Jimmy Dixon scored the first one after a wriggling run. Blewett topped it off with another one that ended in a touchdown. The St. Mary's boys were too tired to stop them.

The game showed that California has a wealth of backfield material, and if Andy Smith can pick one of the boys to run the team and run it right, the Golden Bear will give a good account of himself again this year. The season is just beginning, so naturally neither California nor St. Mary's had much of an offense.

The score:

California	14	7	7	21	—49
St. Mary's	0	0	0	0	—0

Touchdowns — Witter, Nichols, Blewett, 3, Evans, Dixon.

Officials — Macomber, referee; Hollinsberry, umpire; Cave, head linesman.

TRILBY

By GEORGE DU MAURIER

This famous novel is given in serial form to readers of this newspaper through arrangement with Richard Walton Tully, producer of the screen version, and First National Pictures, Inc., distributor of the motion picture.

Part II—Continued

Cold shivers went down Trilby's back as she listened. She had a singularly impressionable nature, as was shown by her quick and ready susceptibility to Svengali's hypnotic influence. And all that day, as she posed for Durien (to whom she did not mention her adventure), she was haunted by the memory of Svengali's big eyes and the touch of his soft, dirty finger-tips on her face; and her fear and her repulsion grew together.

And "Svengali, Svengali, Svengali!" went ringing in her head and ears till it became an obsession, a dirge, a knell, an unendurable burden, almost as hard to bear as the pain in her eyes.

"Svengali, Svengali, Svengali!"

At last she asked Durien if he knew him.

"Parbleu! Si je connais Svengali!"

"Quest-ce que t'en penses?"

As often as she felt it to be discreet, she sounded her war cry at the studio door.
(Andree Lafayette as Trilby.)

"Quand il sera mort, ca fera une fameuse crapule de moins!"

"CHEZ CARREL"

Carrel's atelier (or painting-school) was in the Rue Notre Dame des Potirons St. Michel, at the end of a large court-yard, where there were many large dirty windows facing north, and each window let the light of heaven into a large dirty studio.

The largest of these studios, and the dirtiest, was Carrel's, where some thirty or forty art students drew and painted from the nude model every day but Sunday from eight till twelve, and for two hours in the afternoon, except on Saturdays, when the afternoon was devoted to much-needed Augean sweepings and cleanings.

One week the model was male, the next female, and so on, alternating throughout the year.

A stove, a model-throne, stools, boxes, some fifty strongly built low chairs with backs, a couple of score easels and many drawing-boards, completed the mobilier.

The bare walls were adorned with endless caricatures—des charges—in charcoal and white chalk; and also the scrapings of many palettes—a polychromous decoration not unpleasing.

For the freedom of the studio and the use of the model each student paid ten francs a month to the massier, or senior student, the responsible bellwether of the flock; besides this, it was expected of you, on your entrance or initiation, that you should pay for your footing—your bienvenue—some thirty, forty, or fifty francs, to be spent on cakes and rum punch all round.

Every Friday Monsieur Carrel, a great artist, and also a stately, well-dressed, and most courteous gentleman (duly decorated with the red rosette of the Legion of Honor), came for two or three hours and went the round, spending a few minutes at each drawing-board or easel—ten or even twelve when the pupil was an industrious and promising one.

Before Little Billee became one of this band of brothers he had been working for three or four years in a London art school, drawing and painting from the life; he had also worked from the antique in the British Museum—so that he was no novice.

As he made his debut at Carrel's one Monday morning he felt somewhat shy and ill at ease. He had studied French most earnestly at home in England, and could read it pretty well, and even write it and speak it after a fashion; but he spoke it with much difficulty, and found studio French a different language altogether from the formal and polite language he had been at such pains to learn. Ollendorff does not cater for the quartier latin. Acting on Taffy's advice—for Taffy had worked under Carrel—Little Billee handed sixty francs to the massier for his bienvenue—a lordly sum—and this liberality made a most favorable impression, and went far to destroy any little prejudice that might have been caused by the daintines of his dress, the cleanliness of his person, and the politeness of his manners. A place was assigned to him, and an easel and a board; for he elected to stand at his work and begin with a chalk drawing. The model (a male) was posed, and work began in silence. Monday morning is always rather sulky everywhere (except perhaps in judee). During the ten minutes' rest three or four students came and looked at Little Billee's beginnings, and saw at a glance that he thoroughly well knew what he was about, and respected him for it.

Nature had given him a singularly light hand—or rather two, for he was ambidextrous, and could use both with equal skill; and a few months' practice at a London life school had quite cured him of that purposeless indecision of touch which often characterizes the prentice hand for years of apprenticeship, and remains with the amateur for life. The lightest and most careless of his pencil strokes had a precision that was inimitable, and a charm that specially belonged to him, and was easy to recognize at a glance. His touch on either canvas or paper was like Svengali's on the key-board—unique.

Such was Little Billee's first experience at Carrel's studio, where he spent many happy mornings and made many good friends.

No more popular student had ever worked there within the memory of the grayest graybeards; none more amiable, more genial, more cheerful, self-respecting, considerate, and polite, and certainly none with greater gifts for art.

Carrel would devote at least fifteen minutes to him, and invited him often to his own private studio. And often, on the fourth and fifth day of the week, a group of admiring students would be gathered by his easel watching him as he worked.

"C'est un rude lapin, l'Anglais! au moins il sait son orthographe en peinture, ce coco-la!"

Such was the verdict on Little Billee at Carrel's studio; and I can conceive no loftier praise.

* * * * * * * *

Young as she was (seventeen or eighteen, or thereabouts), and also tender (like Little Billee), Trilby had singularly clear and quick perceptions in all matters that concerned her tastes, fancies, or affections, and thoroughly knew her own mind, and never lost much time in making it up.

On the occasion of her first visit to the studio in the Place St. Anatole des Arts, it took her just five minutes to decide that it was quite the nicest, homeliest, genialist, jolliest studio in the whole quartier latin, or out of it, and its three inhabitants, individually and collectively, were more to her taste than any one else she had ever met.

In the first place, they were English, and she loved to hear her mother-tongue and speak it. It awoke all manner of tender recollections, sweet reminiscences of her childhood, her parents, her old home—such a home as it was,—or, rather, such homes; for there had been many flittings from one poor nest to another. The O'Ferralls had been as birds on the bough.

She had loved her parents very dearly; and, indeed, with all their faults, they had many endearing qualities—the qualities that so often go with those particular faults—charm, geniality, kindness, warmth of heart, the constant wish to please, the generosity that comes before justice, and lends its last sixpence and forgets to pay its debts!

She knew other English and American artists, and had sat to them frequently for the head and hands; but none of these, for general agreeableness of aspect or manner, could compare in her mind with the stalwart and magnificent Taffy, the jolly fat Laird of Cockpen, the refined, sympathetic, and elegant Little Billee; and she resolved that she would see as much of them as she could, that she would make herself at home in that particular studio, and necessary to its "locataires;" and, without being the least bit vain or self-conscious, she had no doubts whatever of her power to please—to make herself both useful and ornamental if it suited her purpose to do so.

Her first step in this direction was to borrow Pere Martin's basket and lantern and pick (he had more than one set of these trade properties) for the use of Taffy, whom she feared she might have offended by the freedom of her comments on his picture.

Then, as often as she felt it to be discreet, she sounded her war-cry at the studio door and went in and made kind inquiries, and, sitting cross-legged on the model-throne, ate her bread and cheese and smoked her cigarette and "passed the time of day," as she chose to call it; telling them all such news of the quartier as had come within her own immediate ken. She was always full of little stories of other studios, which, to do her justice, were always good-natured, and probably true—quite so, as far as she was concerned; she was the most literal person alive; and she told all these "ragots, cancans, et potins d'atelier" in a quaint and amusing manner. The slightest look of gravity or boredom on one of those three faces, and she made herself scarce at once.

She soon found opportunities for usefulness also. If a costume were wanted, for instance, she knew where to borrow it, or hire it or buy it cheaper than any one anywhere else. She procured stuffs for them at cost price, as it seemed, and made them into draperies and female garments of any kind that was wanted, and sat in them for the toreador's sweetheart (she made the mantilla herself), for Taffy's starving dress-maker about to throw herself into the Seine, for Little Billee's studies of the beautiful French peasant girl in his picture, now so famous, called "The Pitcher Goes to the Well."

Then she darned their socks and mended their clothes, and got all their washing done properly and cheaply at her friend Madame Boisse's, in the Rue des Cloitres Ste. Petronille.

And then again, when they were hard up and wanted a good round sum of money for some little pleasure excursion, such as a trip to Fontainebleau or Barbizon for two or three days, it was she who took their watches and scarf-pins and things to the Mount of Piety in the Street of the Well of Love (where dwelt "ma tante," which is French for "my uncle" in this connection), in order to raise the necessary funds.

She was, of course, most liberally paid for all these little services, rendered with such pleasure and good-will—far too liberally, she thought. She would have been really happier doing them for love.

Thus in a very short time she became a persona gratissima—a sunny and ever welcome vision of health and grace and liveliness and unalterable good-humor, always ready to take any trouble to please her beloved "Angliches," as they were called by Madame Vinard, the handsome shrill-voiced concierge, who was almost jealous; for she was devoted to the Angliches too—and so was Monsieur Vinard—and so were the little Vinards.

She knew when to talk and when to laugh and when to hold her tongue; and the sight of her sitting cross-legged on the model-throne darning the Laird's socks or sewing buttons on his shirts or repairing the smoke holes in his trousers was so pleasant that it was painted by all three. One of these sketches (in water-color, by Little Billee) sold the other day at Christie's for a sum so large that I hardly dare to mention it. It was done in an afternoon.

A Personal Solicitation

I would like to urge everyone who can possibly do so to see "Pet of Petticoat Lane" at the Tuesday Afternoon Club tonight or tomorrow night. It is the best musical comedy I have seen in years and you'll get a good laugh.

Aside from the fact that it is for the benefit of the De Molay boys (the junior Masonic organization) you'll come away satisfied that you had your money's worth. I have seen and heard it rehearsed. You may get tickets at my office (110 W. Broadway) if you wish.

CHARLES B. GUTHRIE

At Grade Crossings

He Who Hesitates Is Safe

Self-preservation would seem to be nature's last law.

For in the last five years, 9,101 persons (almost twice the number killed at the Battle of Gettysburg) have sacrificed their lives at highway grade crossings in the United States through failure to stop, look and listen.

Train operation is safe because railway employes are carefully trained. Except in a few states, automobile drivers are turned loose without even an examination.

Trains and street cars stop before crossing another railroad where there is no interlocking device. If it be necessary for them, how much more necessary for the auto driver! For most automobiles carry loved ones and friends of the driver.

Yet, eight out of ten automobile drivers race across railroad tracks without stopping and looking in either direction. Many motorists disregard the watchman's stop signal. Running through and breaking crossing gates is a common occurrence. One-fifth of all train accidents involving automobiles are caused by the automobile running into the side of the train.

The railroads maintain warning signs and require enginemen to whistle and ring the bell for every crossing. Highways are being relocated to eliminate crossings. But railroads are powerless to prevent injury to occupants of automobiles who fail to exercise care for their own safety.

It has been suggested that all grade crossings be removed. There are 250,000 in the United States and at $50,000 each it would cost $12,500,000,000—and take at least thirty years—to remove them. This expense is about two-thirds of the value of all the railroads of the country, as tentatively found by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and neither the railroads nor the municipalities have the money. The "Stop, Look and Listen" rule can be followed now without cost. It takes a train but a few seconds to pass over a crossing. Surely no one would sacrifice his life and his loved ones to save a few seconds!

Lives of rail passengers are imperiled by grade crossing accidents. Recently several trains on eastern roads have been derailed by striking motor vehicles, and enginemen and passengers have been killed.

Grade crossing accidents would absolutely cease if every automobile driver would stop, look and listen at every grade crossing.

Won't you do it?

Omaha, Nebraska,
October 1, 1923.

C. R. GRAY,
President.

UNION PACIFIC SYSTEM

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment.

N. Y. Ship Reporters Get First News From Passengers on Incoming Liners

Reporters Boarding S. S. Monroe.

New York, There is a formality which every passenger on an ocean liner coming into New York Harbor may be subjected to, but which is not mentioned in any book concerning rules of entry into this port—that is, being interviewed by the ship's news reporters. Be the traveler ever so humble, or be he a reigning potentate, he is apt to be called upon by newspaper men who board the liner on which he is a passenger at Quarantine for a "story."

The members of the Ship News Reporters' Association, of the Port of New York, whose duty it is to obtain the news from the ships that go down to the sea, have, perhaps, a wider acquaintance among prominent travelers than anyone else in the world. This is the result of their constantly coming in contact with big figures in the day's news when the latter leave New York for foreign ports, or arrive here on incoming liners.

The manner in which these newspaper men cover an incoming passenger liner is most interesting. The majority of them live in the suburbs of New York City and get up at 5 o'clock in the morning, snatch a hasty breakfast and proceed to the Barge Office at the Battery—the lower end of Manhattan. There, as the sun is rising, they board a U. S. Coast Guard Cutter which carries them with the immigration officials and custom officers down the Bay to Quarantine. Here, after the passenger vessels have been released from Quarantine, they board the liners in which they are interested, either by means of a narrow wooden plank from the upper deck of the small cutter through a port in the side of the liner, [illegible] accommodation ladder, or an ordinary painter's ladder.

The number of reporters and photographers who board a ship inward bound depends upon the amount of news they know or feel will be on board. The steamships of the United States Lines are always carefully covered by the Ship News men as they know that a good "story" will generally be found aboard. This line carries practically all of the big representatives of the U. S. Government who are going home from duties abroad and, they always have some news of big international importance to "tell the world," through the press, on their arrival. Society persons, stage and screen stars and prominent individuals in both business and social life also travel on these vessels and furnish more than one excellent "story" to the ship news men.

It is not always among those prominent in the world's affairs, however, who supply the best news. Many a story full of laughter or tears is discovered on board a steamship by the ship news reporters which is centered around the humblest passenger aboard or a member of the crew.

When the ship news men board a United States liner at Quarantine they are pretty well aware of what news is on board, for the office of the line receives from its captains, two days before each vessel is due in New York, a radiogram giving the names of prominent persons on board, as well as an outline of any "story" which may have developed on the way across. The reporters, therefore, when they get aboard, know who to interview to obtain the news. Very often, however, the most prominent person, from a social standpoint, is of less value to the newspaper men than some simple tourist. From these latter tales of adventure in foreign climes are often secured.

The ship news reporter can ask more questions, undoubtedly, than any other member of his craft, and the individual who thinks he can trip up the experienced man on points of foreign politics, business, or anything else, is usually sadly mistaken, for, by constant contact with travelers from all over the world, they are very well posted on the leading topics of the day—in politics, finance and social life.

Everybody on the United States liners from the ordinary seamen and bellhops, through the Stewards and Purser's Departments to the captain and his officers on the bridge give a hand to the ship news men in covering the vessel; they try to remember those on board who may have something interesting to relate and tell the reporters of it when queried for news.

Arrivals on United States liners coming here for the first time are often astonished at the rapid way the newspaper men go about their work while the battery of photographers line up their subjects and snap them in all manner of interesting poses.

Veteran travelers, in all walks of life, know that the quizzing by the ship news reporters and the posing for the photographers is as much a part of entering the Port of New York as is passing the immigration and the custom officials. They therefore readily place themselves at the disposal of the reporters and photographers, for the edification of newspaper readers the country over.

Sandwich Fillings

Cheese and Pimento

One cream chees (four ounces), two tablespoonsmilk, two tablespoons pimento, one-fourth teaspoon salt, sprinkle of cayenne. Rub the cheese smooth with the milk. Add salt and cayenne, and when well mixed add the pimentos. Rub this all together until the filling has a delicate pink color, then spread on buttered slices of bread for sandwiches.

Combination with Chopped Nuts

An ideal sandwich filler can be made using finely chopped cucumber pickles as a basis. Mix a little milk with some cream cheese, and add to pickles. Lastly, add chopped nut meats. Put between slices of bread and lettuce leaves.

Deaths and Funerals

JAMES E. JONES

James E. Jones passed away at his home, 615 Orange Grove avenue, Sunday, September 30, at the age of 76 years, leaving a widow, Sarah M. Jones; a son, A. S. Jones, and a brother, J. M. Jones of 1014 East Elk avenue. He had been a resident of Glendale for about three years and had quite a large circle of friends here.

Funeral services, which will be in charge of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., will be announced later.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC WORK

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the City of Glendale on the 27th day of September, 1923, did, at its meeting on said day, adopt Ordinance of Intention No. 847, declaring its intention to order the following improvement to be made, to-wit:

That

be widened, from the southerly line and its easterly extension of that portion of Broadway lying westerly of Central Avenue to the northerly line of that portion of Eulalia Street lying easterly of Central Avenue and San Fernando Road.

For a description of the district to be assessed for the expenses of said improvement and for all other particulars of said improvement, reference is hereby made to said Ordinance of Intention No. 847.

AT THE THEATRES

POLA NEGRI IN "THE CHEAT" AT THE T. D. & L.

The photography of Pola Negri's second American made Paramount picture, "The Cheat," now showing at the T. D. and L. theater, was the work of Arthur Miller, who made her first production of "Bella Donna," also directed by George Fitzmaurice. It is said that there never has been a more appealing or more perfectly produced picture made. Jack Holt is featured in the leading man's role with Charles de Roche playing in support.

"SHE LOVES AND LIES" AGAIN AT THE GLENDALE

Norman Talmadge, famed beauty of the screen, is coming to the Glendale Theater again today in "She Loves and Lies," a comedy drama founded on Wilkie Collins' story of the same name.

In this play, Miss Talmadge portrays two sides of the well known eternal triangle, being her own rival for the affections of her husband. Miss Talmadge as Marie Callender finds herself wed to a certain Mr. Lismore, whom she marries in a philanthropic mood, to help him tide over some financial worries. It is purely a marriage of convenience, but as time passes Marie finds the "marriage of convenience" extremely dull; whereupon she searches for a method of winning her husband's love. The plan she eventually hits upon is unique to say the least. Realiizng that she cannot flirt with him at home under the circumstances, she goes elsewhere, becomes someone else, and sets out to win him.

Greenwich Village, the celebrated habitat of the folks whom Irvin S. Cobb has nick-named the "Hobohemians" is the site of much of the action in the play.

JOCKEY'S CAP MODEL FOR HAT

Not unlike a little jockey cap is a hat of coral color taffeta, which has for decoration a white bird with a sweeping tail across the front and side.

BRILLIANT CAST IN FILM NOW AT THE GATEWAY

Lovers of romance—and who deep down in his heart doesn't love it?—enjoyed themselves thoroughly last evening when Sir Anthony Hope's famous novel, "Rupert of Hentzau" was visualized at the Gateway theater.

The photodrama, "Rupert of Hentzau," was directed by Victor Heerman, and its cast is of unparalleled brilliance. Imagine seeing Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Claire Windsor, Marjorie Daw, Josephine Crowell, Irving Cummings, Mitchell Lewis, Adolphe Menjou, Elmo Lincoln, Nigel De Brullier and Gertrude Astor all in the same production! And when these famous screen artists appear in a story that exudes romance and adventure the result is naturally a picture of unqualified excellence.

Of course we don't want to seem to say too much, but "Rupert of Hentzau" will be at the Gateway theater again tonight, and if anyone enjoys a snooze during any of the performances it certainly will be surprising.

BUSINESS AND RELIGION UNITED FOR PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (United Press).—Business and religion will join hands in the United States to secure prohibition enforcement.

Plans for this co-operative movement will be laid at a meeting in Washington, October 14, 15 and 16, when 600 delegates representing business and the churches will get together.

Senator Borah, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and former Governor Milligan of Maine will be among the speakers. Borah is to address the conference October 15 on "Shall the Constitution Be Nullified?"

Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is one member of a committee which will seek to disprove that American labor is in favor of modification of the dry laws to permit light wines and beer, as Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has stated.

Dr. C. E. Watson, secretary of the Council of Churches of Christ in America, who is helping make arrangements for the conference, said a force of the most expert statisticians in the country is gathering data to show the effects of alcoholic indulgence on men in industry and business, on the homes and morals of the people, and on their health.

"We know there is now more violation of the prohibition law than there should be," said Dr. Watson. "What our conference will do will be to face facts and deal in facts. There has been too much knocking and ridicule, too much wild talk not based on exact data. Some say there are many drinking today simply because of prohibition. That is propaganda, pure and simple.

"The purpose of our conference is to align the moral, religious and business interests of the nation in co-operation for active enforcement."

ASLEEP

Never a care as she lies asleep,
Dear little lassie with curly hair;
Angels of Light a sweet vigil keep,
Keep for the little one slumbering there.
Never a dream as she lies so still,
Never a dream but of Fairyland,
Fairyland and the flowers that fill
Her bed and the lilies within her hand.

Never a sigh from the silent lips
For the dollies all carefully laid away,
Only the music of laughter slips
Out of the realm of the sunlit day,
Never or ever a thought or care
For the little hat with its flowered wreath,
Bearing a vision of red brown hair,
Flying in tangled curls beneath.

Dead? Ah, no. She is just asleep,
Asleep where the dreams and the daisies are,
Angels of light a sweet vigil keep,
Keep in the light of a twinkling star.
Asleep, and the odors of flowers fill
Her bed and the lilies within her hand,
Asleep, and the whispering angels still
Her sighs with the dreams of Fairyland.
